GROCER FINED $15,000 FOR FALSE TAX CLAIMS

* * *

Surprise Move Ends City Trial

By ED COSGROVE

Probably the heaviest total of fines ever imposed in Greater Victoria police courts was levied yesterday by Magistrate J. A. Byers against a Saanich supermarket operator charged with falsifying income tax returns.

Henry Eng, operator of Oakcrest supermarket, 3475 Quadra, was fined a total of $15,000 for six counts of filing false income tax returns.

The trial of Mr. Eng came to an abrupt end yesterday afternoon when defence counsel W. H. M. Haldane requested permission to change his client's plea to guilty.

The surprise move came at the midway point in the lengthy trial.

More than 10 witnesses had been heard in eight court appearances since the trial began in Saanich court last month. Another 10 were ready to testify yesterday.

Must Pay Back Taxes

Thirty-five exhibits had been entered into the evidence and reams of documents supporting the Crown's case were on hand in court.

Besides the fine, Mr. Eng will also have to pay $39,365 in back taxes.

Kenneth Stokes, investigator for the income tax department, who had handled the two-year probe into the finances of Mr. Eng's supermarket, told the court his investigation disclosed a total of $116,423 in undeclared income from 1954 to 1957.

This included $84,985 realized from sales, $26,093 in duplicated costs, $1,238 in personal expenses (declared as business expenses); $3,917 in profits from unreported truck sales and bank and mortgage interest of $190.

Second Largest Fine

Mr. Stokes said the additional income tax accruing from these profits came to $39,365 "not including interest calculation."

Later, he told the Colonist that collection of the outstanding taxes would be turned over to the collection department of his office. He said the interest rate was computed at approximately eight to 10 per cent.

The fine was the second largest ever imposed against an individual on Vancouver Island.

Largest fine was levied against the late Mayo Singh, of Paldi, who in 1954 was fined $20,000 at Lake Cowichan after pleading guilty to charges involving back taxes of some $300,000.

The application to change the plea came after a half-hour conference by both prosecution and defence counsel in Magistrate Byers' chambers prior to court convening.

'Could Be Disputed'

Then both batteries of counsel (Pat Sinnott and his nephew Jerry Sinnott for the prosecution; Mr. Haldane and Frank Donegani for the defence) filed into court.

When Mr. Byers entered, Mr. Haldane rose:

"I am instructed . . . to ask leave . . . to withdraw the plea of not guilty to each of the six counts . . . and to enter a plea of guilty on each," he said.

Crown counsel offered no objections.

After Mr. Stokes related the findings of his investigation, Mr. Haldane asked him:

"Would you agree that possibly your findings could be questioned, and some of the figures subject to dispute?"

Mr. Stokes said he agreed that some of the figures could be disputed by another authority, but to his knowledge, they were accurate.

Speaking to the sentence, Pat Sinnott said the department of justice considered falsification of income tax returns "a very serious matter."

This, he said, was a "flagrant case" of deceiving the government and the "people of Canada."

"The maximum penalty on each count can be a fine of $10,000, plus two years' imprisonment, plus a levy of

81 Die In Air Crash

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—A chartered Constellation carrying 78 military recruits destined for training in the Berlin buildup crashed while making an emergency landing with two of its four engines dead at Byrd Field here last night. There were only two known survivors.

The Imperial Airlines plane also carried a crew of five. The two survivors were the pilot and the flight engineer.

If only two of the total 83 were alive it would be the worst crash of a single non-military aircraft in the nation's history. The most costly previous crash was that of a TWA Constellation in Chicago Sept. 15 of this year, which killed 78.

The flight originated in Newark, N.J., and was en route to Columbia, S.C. The recruits were believed to be from the Baltimore, Newark and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., areas. The plane had made a stop in Baltimore.

Racial Critic 'Guilty'

PRETORIA (Reuters) — Albert Geyser, 43-year-old professor of New Testament theology and ancient Christian literature, has been suspended as a church minister pending completion of his secret trial for heresy, it was announced here Wednesday.

Geyser, whose trial is based on his rejection of racial segregation as anti-scriptural, is a member of South Africa's three Dutch Reformed churches.

Queen Off Today

LONDON (CP) — The British cabinet decided at a special meeting Wednesday that the Queen should go ahead with her state visit to troubled Ghana.

She and Prince Philip leave this morning by jet plane.

Prime Minister Macmillan drove to Buckingham Palace to inform the Queen of the decision and then told the Commons the Queen would proudly go ahead with the tour despite a series of bomb blasts in Accra, capital of the West African Commonwealth nation.

"The Queen is said to be looking forward eagerly to the trip and to have made it known that her personal inclination was against altering the program, announced months ago.

In Accra last night the Ghanaian government warned it would impose the maximum penalty, "including death," for any acts of subversion during and after the Queen's visit.

Kennedy Defends Nehru

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy came quickly to the defence of Jawaharlal Nehru yesterday when told by a reporter that "a number of people" think the Indian premier's views tend to be pro-Communist.

Kennedy seemed somewhat shocked at the statement, made by a foreign reporter at the president's news conference.

"I know of no rational man in the United States who holds that view," Kennedy said.

A few hours earlier Kennedy and Nehru had spent an hour and 20 minutes together in their third straight day of talks.

Kennedy said he and Nehru naturally differed on some matters. But he knew of no one more committed to individual freedom than the Indian leader.

Giovanni's Loaded with Lire After Fabulous Run of Luck

TURIN, Italy (AP)—Giovanni Vallauri has decided, with some reason, that he is having a run of luck.

On Oct. 21 Vallauri, a Turin chemist, took a chance on Italy's weekly state-run lottery, Enalotto, and won 3,500,000 lire ($5,600).

The next day he played Italy's Totocalcio football pool and won 8,000,000 lire ($12,800).

On Oct. 28 he went to Turin's auto show to see what he could buy with his winnings. He won a 500,000 lire ($800) car on his entry ticket.

The next day he played Totocalcio again and won 2,000,000 lire ($3,200).

And, of course, Enalotto rolled around again Monday. His winnings: 1,900,000 lire ($3,000).

Total to date with Totocalcio coming up again Sunday: 15,900,000 lire ($25,400).

Presidential Switch Forced By Angry Air Force Attack

QUITO (AP)—Ecuador's air force attacked Quito with jet fighters Wednesday and forced the army to accept left-leaning Vice-President Carlos Julio Arosemena as president of the crisis-ridden nation.

Three T-33 jets firing rockets and machine-guns swooped over the Legislative Palace where tank-supported soldiers were holding Arosemena a virtual prisoner.

CLAIM DROPPED

Minutes after the attack, radio stations and loud speakers announced that army-backed Camilo Gallegos Toledo, supreme court chief and a political centrist, had dropped his claim to the presidency.

FORCE USED

Army units had picked him to take over the job left vacant by the resignation of President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra. The Congress voted Arosemena into the job and the air force backed up the decision with force against the army.

TANKS WITHDRAWN

As soon as Gallegos' resignation was announced, army tanks and troops withdrew from the palace.

Deposed president Velasco Ibarra obtained political asylum yesterday in the Mexican embassy.

Scared Morgue Man Stays Out in Cold

CHICAGO (UPI)—The coroner asked permission yesterday to hire a second attendant for the midnight-to-8 a.m. shift at the county morgue because the present attendant "is afraid to stay alone in the morgue with the bodies." Coroner Andrew Toman said the lone attendant puts the receiving office telephone outside the window and stays out in the cold awaiting any calls.

The coroner said none of the three daytime attendants want the job. "They're just as scared," he said.

UN Demands A-Test Talks

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) —The General Assembly last night called for immediate resumption of negotiations on a nuclear test ban treaty despite Russia's clear warning it would not participate in such talks.

The vote was 70-41 with 15 abstentions. Only Cuba joined the 10-nation Soviet bloc in opposing the call, contained in a resolution sponsored by the United States and Britain.

Bomarc Heads in Air

* * *

'War Might Catch Us Without Nuclear Arms'

PORT HAWKESBURY, N.S. (CP)—Opposition leader Pearson said Wednesday that nuclear war might catch Canada off guard with no time to secure nuclear weapons.

Mr. Pearson said the government was spending millions on two Bomarc-B missile sites but would not declare its policy on nuclear warheads for them.

Mr. Pearson said it appeared to be the government's policy to "wait for an emergency and then decide," but in nuclear warfare, there might not be time to secure nuclear warheads.

OTTAWA (CP)—There is no present intention of ordering conventional warheads for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, reliable sources said Wednesday.

Such warheads would cost an enormous amount to develop and produce, the sources said, taking issue with a spokesman for Boeing Airplane Company, manufacturer of the Bomarc, who said last week high-explosive warheads could be easily installed in the weapon.

The defence department said last month the question of warheads for the Bomarc was not considered urgent at the time because it would be some months before the missiles were installed on their launching pads at North Bay and La Macaza, Que.

The department made this statement when it became clear that only nuclear warheads were available for the Bomarc.

The defence department hardly bothers any more to conceal its restlessness over the government's continuing policy of refraining from making a decision on acquisition of American nuclear warheads.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THERE may be more dark faces on the campuses of Canadian universities soon.

Africa needs several thousand new civil servants in a hurry, as the native-born move into posts now held by Europeans. Some of the new administrators—and engineers and teachers and doctors—will be trained in Canada.

Rapid "Africanization" of the civil service is one of the aims of the new nations. Since most of the African people are scantily educated or illiterate, and a mass of them are still primitive or only a few years removed from primitive life, it will be hard to find qualified recruits.

Leaders of the new nations are just beginning to realize the need for a "crash" program of education, in order to train African replacements for the Europeans who hold key administrative jobs.

* * *

A British senior civil servant employed by the government of Tanganyika (population 9,000,000 Africans, 100,000 Asiatics, 30,000 Europeans) visited Victoria this week to sound out the possibility of training African game conservation officers in British Columbia.

He was Major Bruce G. Kinloch, one-time officer of the 3rd Gurkha Rifles in the Indian Army, now chief game warden of Tanganyika.

Maj. Kinloch has led a campaign for the training of Africans to fill posts in the game branch of Tanganyika's ministry of lands, forests and wildlife.

Tanganyika, a former German colony which became a mandated territory of Britain's after the 1914-18 war, is due for complete independence Dec. 9 this year.

* * *

Britain's East African territory of Uganda is to be wholly self-governing in October, 1962, and Kenya's complete independence will probably follow not long afterwards.

All branches of government now staffed by expatriate civil servants—administration, police, agriculture, veterinary, forestry, medical—will need trained African recruits.

The game branch, in particular, looks to North America for instruction.

"The United States and Canada still have large populations of wild animals, and have seen the danger light soon enough to spend some effort on conservation.

"The principles of wildlife management are much the same everywhere, though the details are different."

* * *

The idea of conservation of wildlife is fairly new in Africa.

"Not long ago, wildlife was looked upon as an obstacle to economic development, rather than as a valuable resource," Maj. Kinloch said.

"In Uganda and Tanganyika, the game and fish divisions began as elephant control departments, to deal with elephants that were damaging crops."

But the attitude changed. The "Arusha Manifesto," published over the signature of J. K. Nyerere, prime minister of Tanganyika, had this to say:

"The survival of our wildlife is a matter of grave concern to all of us in Africa. These wild creatures . . . are not only important as a source of wonder and inspiration but are an integral part of our natural resources and of our future livelihood and well-being.

* * *

"In accepting the trusteeship of our wildlife we solemnly declare that we will do everything in our power to make sure that our children's grandchildren will be able to enjoy this rich and precious inheritance.

"The conservation of wildlife and wild places calls for specialist knowledge, trained manpower and money and we look to other nations to cooperate in this important task—the success or failure of which not only affects the continent of South Africa but the rest of the world as well."

Now the game division is growing up—just in time to deal with Africa's wildlife crisis. Wild animals are dwindling, and they are in danger of being pushed into a corner by population growth and economic change.

The menace to Africa's wildlife is not as grave as some pessimists have painted it, but—Maj. Kinloch says—it is grave enough.

Four years ago Maj. Kinloch applied for a United Nations fellowship to go to North America and study wildlife management methods.

While he was waiting for his fellowship to be decided, numerous distinguished American zoologists and conservation experts were brought to Africa on research and liaison work.

* * *

Now the fellowship has come through and Maj. Kinloch is here to study and to arrange training facilities for African students.

Numbers of students will probably come to western universities, including UBC, and if present plans are carried out, two or three students each year will be attached to the B.C. fish and game branch for field work.

African universities are not equipped for training large numbers of students in wildlife science.

However Maj. Kinloch has proposed that a wildlife management training school for East Africa be set up in the Arusha region of Tanganyika, to train conservation officers of middle and junior rank.

What will happen to the expatriate civil servants now in Britain's former East African territories? Native leaders have asked the present civil servants to remain, but no new recruits will be brought out on a long-term basis from Britain.

Storeys Boost Status

High-rise apartments are cheaper to build and operate and return higher rents than one or two-storey apartment buildings, manager of a Victoria investment company said yesterday.

Ernest Lindberg, addressing a meeting of Victoria Real Estate Board, said the cost for each apartment unit is lower in construction and operation, and rents that can be charged are up to 20 per cent higher than for similar units in smaller apartment blocks.

"Over the past 20 years it has been a mark of social distinction to live in a high-rise," he said.

Water Pills Safe

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 30 pounds overweight and my doctor is giving me water pills because my legs and face swell so badly.

If I don't take these for a week I gain five or six pounds, but I am afraid if I take them too long they will become a habit. My doctor seems to think I'll be all right after I have lost more weight. What is your opinion?—Mrs. S.H.

The doctor is quite right; the loss of some weight will do wonders.

"Water pills" are one of the fairly new, and certainly important, medicines. These drugs, called "diuretics," force the body to rid itself of excess water which under various conditions collects in the tissues of the body.

They are not habit-forming, any more than aspirin. They have an effect on the system—getting rid of excess water. So Mrs. S.H. should listen to her doctor, not to her worries about taking the drugs too long.

Several conditions can cause water to accumulate in the system — varicose veins, menstrual difficulty or some heart or kidney disorder.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true or just an old wives' tale about not canning tomatoes during one's menstrual period because they will spoil? My mother and mother-in-law plus others swear to this.—J.P.

An old wives' tale. Next year try it and see, but don't try to convince your relatives. You can't change 'em. You'd just make 'em mad.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: What can you tell me about cardiac insufficiency? Does an electrocardiogram show all the necessary facts?—Mrs. C.C.L.

"Cardiac insufficiency" means the heart is not working up to par. Causes—maybe damaged valves from rheumatic fever or the like, maybe coronary artery disease, maybe infections or poisons. The cardiogram can be extremely useful, if only to indicate what isn't the trouble, but I cannot say an electrocardiogram will always show "all the necessary facts." It's just one of several methods.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it unhealthful to drink softened water? We were under the impression it is more healthful than hard water with the alkali, etc., until neighbors told us we were wrong in thinking this.—I.C.R.

No, softened water is perfectly healthful, and the thing to do is to drink whichever kind you prefer, hard or soft. The only exception is that softened water often contains sodium rather than calcium—the sodium would be wrong for anyone on a low-salt diet.

City Hall Is Cheaper to Build

Victoria can build a new city hall for less than it will cost to buy the B.C. Hydro building and adapt it to the city's needs, Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith claimed last night.

"There are 46,000 square feet of space in the Hydro building and the city is prepared to pay $660,000 for it," he said.

"Renovations and so on will probably put the city in for $800,000 or more.

"For $750,000 we could have a new city hall built to our needs and with 50,000 square feet of space."

Mr. Smith, a possible candidate in the December mayoralty election, said provincial government has built the new law court building for only $14 a square foot.

"If they are going to put another storey on the Hydro building and put in a proper elevator it will cost about $1,000,000.

"I have talked to all contractors in Victoria and have had figures about $15 a square foot."

Mr. Smith said he felt all facts about the Hydro building were being kept from the public. He referred to the 1959 civic vote on the proposal to build an off-street parking garage and mall on View Street.

"Once the people got the facts on the parking lot deal they voted it down two to one."

Mr. Smith said he felt city council should close off Broad Street, behind the present city hall, and Cormorant Street on the north side of the building and consolidate that land with the city's parking lot and police station.

"There are 4½ acres there, and that would be sufficient land for a new city hall, police station, auditorium, senior citizens' recreation centre and farmers' market."

Mr. Smith said a civic centre on that site should also have underground parking.

"I think our forefathers, who had the foresight to build the present city hall, would turn over in their graves if we were to forsake our duties at this time."

U.K. Market Talks Off to Good Start

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Negotiations for British membership in the six-nation European Common Market started well, both sides reported Wednesday.

After the closed-door session, the first in an expected 18 months of hard bargaining, a spokesman for the 30-member British delegation said the "tremendously business-like" talks featured "constructive" comments from market negotiators.

The six nations were reported to have told Britain it must help them establish political as well as economic union if it becomes a member.

Edward Heath, British European affairs minister, was understood to have told them Britain would co-operate fully in unity aims for Europe.

"I realized later that putting the gun away was a silly thing to do," Frederick said. "But I have been a butler all my life. It was sheer force of habit.

"I did it without question—as I did everything else for His Lordship. I am a gentleman's gentleman."

Nkrumah Regime Under Heavy Fire

LONDON (AP) — Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Central African Federation, made a blistering attack on President Kwame Nkrumah's Ghanaian regime yesterday — on the eve of Queen Elizabeth's visit to Ghana.

Among his listeners was Prime Minister Macmillan, who had advised the Queen to go ahead with her controversial tour of the West African republic.

Welensky charged that African nationalism is evil and said Communist influence is spreading through the Middle East and North Africa.

"In Ghana there is a move and a rapid one toward Marxism. And Ghana, too, is the warden and the paymaster of African nationalists," he said in a luncheon address.

"I believe a movement which has swept a continent, turned evil and began to feed upon its followers."

Welensky said the African movement "pays lip service to non-violence, but never hesitates to use the methods of the murderer."

Ghana MPs Arrested

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — At least one member of Parliament and a newspaper executive were arrested in police raids yesterday on the eve of Queen Elizabeth's visit.

Police also threw a cordon around the house of former finance minister K. A. Gbedemah, and there were reports, not immediately confirmed, they had seized six other persons.

'Stay Ahead'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy said Wednesday he will ask Congress for additional defence funds in January to keep American military strength ahead of Russian power.

'Commonwealth to Gain From Common Market'

OTTAWA (AP) — British entry into the European Common Market, if achieved on reasonable terms, would be as beneficial to the Commonwealth as to Britain, Viscount Amory said Wednesday.

The recently-appointed British high commissioner, in his first major public speech here since his appointment, said Britain cannot "stand aside" from Europe and the rapid economic growth of the Common Market.

A strong Britain, with a healthy, growing economy, "would be a source of strength to the Commonwealth," he told the Canadian Club.

"A weak Britain, struggling to maintain herself, would be a liability to the Commonwealth."

Wide Implications

THERE is more than trading and tariffs to the European Common Market, although this aspect is ignored by the critics of the federal government. It is probable indeed that while soft-pedalled by the Macmillan regime the real reason for Britain's proposed entry into the ECM is political.

The European market group is moving steadily towards the creation of a common political entity. There is no secret about this: the six nations now comprising the ECM have set this as a goal. There is in the making a potential United States of Europe, a third force rivalling in strength the two major forces of the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R.

Britain is tied to Europe by geography and history, and any alteration in the balance of European power and influence affects her intimately. Did she stay out of such a grouping there is the fear, already expressed in British circles, that she would suffer a diminution in status and authority as a nation. To a country which has been the leading European power for centuries this is a prospect scarcely to be entertained.

The reverse view to this, voiced by those in Britain not so anxious that she should join the ECM as these federal critics in Canada seem to be, is that by joining a common market likely to become a political force Britain might find her sovereignty endangered and drop from a leading to a lesser influence.

The political implications are thus far-reaching and they affect Canada and the Commonwealth. Mr. Howard Green has pin-pointed one aspect that cannot be lightly dismissed. How could Britain as a member of this new union and not its directing head, reconcile its role as the leader of the Commonwealth? The policies of the ECM might easily run counter to those of general Commonwealth interest.

Beyond the immense trading stake Canada has at issue in the question there is this wider problem of future political results. And it could be vital to Canada.

It is no wonder that Mr. Green concedes frankly that "we are very much worried." Only those who for partisan reasons disregard the political aspect of the ECM in order to attack the Diefenbaker government, can afford to bless Britain's entry into the Common Market without thought of the consequences.

They do not bear the responsibility for its effect on this country. The Conservative government does, and there is no rebuttal to Mr. Green's question when he asks: "What would you think of a Canadian government which did not do everything to protect the interests of the Canadian people?

It is Britain's right to do what she thinks is best for her; it is Canada's right equally to voice apprehension if it thinks it will be adversely affected.

One at a Time

THE RATEPAYERS of Victoria will be asked on December 14, according to present plans, if they want to buy the B.C. Power Commission building as a city hall. To that question, they can answer a simple yes or no. But now Alderman A. W. Toone wants to add another question to the ballot: do they want to build an entirely new city hall on Blanshard Street opposite the Law Courts?

City council would do well to leave this suggestion alone. It has been made, no doubt, in the sincere belief that the whole matter could thus be settled at one stroke. But it has two flaws.

One is that the ballot could only be confusing, as Saanich council found when it offered its ratepayers alternative municipal hall proposals in 1956. The voters could not be given a simple choice between the Hydro building and a new structure; that would give them no chance to vote against both. And if they were asked to vote yes or no on each proposal, it is not impossible that council would find itself instructed to proceed with both.

At best it seems certain that there would be many spoiled ballots. The first requisite of a plebiscite question is that it should be straightforward.

The second flaw is that it surely would be impossible between now and the civic elections to draw preliminary plans for a new city hall and obtain a reasonably firm cost estimate. Those who voted for construction of a new city hall, in other words, would be voting for a pig in a poke.

If the Hydro building purchase is rejected, Mayor Percy Scurrah proposes, then plans for a new city hall will be drawn and the ratepayers will be given a chance to say whether or not they wish to build it. The holding of a second plebiscite would be slightly the more expensive course, and would take more time. But the ratepayers would know for sure what they were asked, and council would know for sure what it was told.

Well Justified

WHEN he was here last week Major-General Rockingham, one of Victoria's contributions to the higher ranks of the Canadian Army, defended the new army CD program inaugurated by the defence department. Far from it being a failure he was impressed by the response it evoked.

The situation in Victoria and Vancouver Island bears him out. Recruits have come forward in gratifying numbers. Nanaimo and Port Alberni reached the enrolment target easily; Courtenay was but slightly behind. In Victoria some 250 men lined up at the Armoury when the first course began this week.

Admittedly not all of the recruits were motivated by interest in survival training. Some were men out of work and the course represented a six-week job. Even so and since there are to be four consecutive courses this will mean that much employment over the winter months, a good thing.

As a result of these courses, also, some of these CD militiamen, especially the younger of them, will probably decide to sign on for normal militia training. Some may even be induced by this contact with army life to seek enlistment in the regular army. These developments alone would be enough to justify this defence experiment.

But all those enrolled are bound to have their interest whetted as the courses go on, and they cannot help but benefit by the knowledge they acquire and the training they receive. Willy-nilly they will form a cadre of civil defence strength come any emergency of the kind they are enlisted against.

That means they would be able to spread this benefit to the succor of others in distress.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax. . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

AN American author of humorous bent observed once that "there's nothing like a common language for permitting two nations to misunderstand each other."

The UN imbroglios would seem to dent this theory but he spoke a mouthful, nevertheless.

The world shrinks as science, communications and common fears draws it together willy-nilly. It thus gains in mutual knowledge and appreciation. And where nations speak the same tongue difficulties should disappear.

So runs the maxim.

Sometimes, however, bliss ignorance is the saving grace. If you don't understand a person's language you can't misunderstand what he is saying.

You are thus left in a degree of mental peace. There is no room for argument.

Perhaps there is virtue in a Tower of Babel after all; paradoxically it could help to keep relations smooth.

* * *

Our own English language has its pitfalls. The several nations which use it as a mother tongue invent their own variations and these cause puzzlement. As for instance the British lady visitor to Ottawa who saw two small boys walking at some personal risk in the street and full of concern for their safety called out: "You should use the pavement."

And naturally the lads replied, full of amazement: "But we are using the pavement."

Idioms, different meanings for the same word and different words for the same meaning, all in a common linguistic frame can create a puzzle. Thus we have the trunk and boot of a car, lift and elevator, petrol and gasoline, radio and wireless, and so on.

And the wonderment of a British railway porter who is asked by a Canadian tourist at a brief stop if there is a coffee shop on the platform, plus the query: "Do you think I can make it?"

The elements of time and cooking are hereby linked, to the utter astonishment of the porter.

Yet both individuals are presumed to speak the same language.

* * *

A similar tongue has another demerit, it invites criticism based on the assumption that if nations have a common language their habits and preferences should be equally common.

An English-speaking visitor to Mexico, for instance, or to Brazil or Japan, is apt to accept ways of these lands without rancour. Language colors the atmosphere and since he doesn't understand it he simply bows to custom and behaves as one is supposed to do when in Rome.

At least he is not surprised by a different way of doing things.

But it's a different kettle of fish when an American goes to Britain or a Briton goes to America and, equally, when a Canadian goes to either, and vice versa. Criticism is often free and unasked, because the enjoyment of a single language wrongly postulates a common way of life.

* * *

And the visitor thinks that what's good enough for him in his home country should be the rote in the country he is visiting. It's the unimportant little rubs along this line, also, that do the damage.

Ah, well. Give television another 50 years and we'll all be filled with the same idioms and habits of life. Whether this will make for a better understanding I wouldn't care to guess.

Sometimes the less you know of your fellow men the better.

Once in Cairo I had to have a tooth pulled and I couldn't speak Egyptian and the dentist couldn't speak English. But he did the job well and afterwards gave me a cup of coffee.

No English-speaking dentist ever offered me a cup of coffee.

"BUT IT'S SUCH A SMALL ROCK!"

Seen From Whitehall

A Widening Division

By ROBERT STEPHENS, from London

THE "demonologists" — as Whitehall calls its experts on Russia—are now hard at work assessing the results of the sensational 22nd Communist Party Congress in Moscow.

There is a huge mass of material to be digested and reexamined. There may even be important new developments still to come, as in the case of the Russo-Chinese dispute. But British experts have already drawn the following tentative conclusions.

1. As far as foreign policy is concerned, the main purpose and main result of the congress were to confirm the decisions of the 20th Party Congress in favor of Mr. Khrushchev's theory of "peaceful co-existence" and against the Chinese - supported doctrine of the inevitability of war. It is noted that Mr. Khrushchev declared that the "chief activity" of the Communist party had been the "prevention of war."

2. The Soviet split with Peking has been widened. It concerns not only the question of war against "imperialism," but also the doctrine of internal development and relations between different members of the Soviet bloc.

* * *

The Soviet attack on Albania for not toeing the agreed line of a more flexible and less repressive policy was a criticism of China. It was, at the same time, an attempt to preserve Moscow's dominant leadership of the Communist bloc. The early departure from the congress of the Chinese premier, Chou En-lai, and his reproof to the Russians for bringing the Albanian affair into the open, indicate that Peking is not prepared to accept ideological dictation from Moscow.

So far Mr. Khrushchev has the great majority of the Communist bloc countries behind him. China and Albania are isolated, but there are signs of hesitation among some Asian Communist parties, especially North Korea and North Vietnam.

The struggle between Moscow and Peking for influence over the world Communist movement is likely to be most intense in Asia and possibly Africa and Latin America.

3. The congress showed no major change in the Soviet attitude towards Berlin. In his first speech to the congress on October 17, Mr. Khrushchev withdrew the time-limit of the end of the year for a German peace treaty, provided the West entered serious negotiations on Berlin. But his second big speech ten days later was tougher and laid more stress on the need for "business-like" talks. He made it clear that the Western powers could not expect Russia to guarantee their rights of access to Berlin—at least as long as these rights were based on occupation rights in West Berlin.

* * *

The Russian objective is to go as far as possible to achieve the final division of Germany. Through the Berlin crisis, they wish to secure from the West at least what the Soviet foreign minister, Mr. Gromyko, has called "respect for the authority of the DDR (East Germany) in the territory it controls and administers."

4. The main purpose of the renewed attack on Stalin and on the "anti-party" group led by Molotov, Malenkov and Kaganovitch was to try to clear the Communist party as such of guilt and responsibility for the great Stalinist purges from 1934 onwards.

The revival of the denunciations of the anti-party group suggests there is continued disagreement on important internal policies, such as the role of collective farms, wages policy and the development of heavy industry. But although Mr. Khrushchev and his supporters may still be suffering from intermittent sniping from critics, there are no signs of any organized and effective opposition to the Soviet premier.

5. The explosions of Russia's monster H-bombs had primarily a political and not a military purpose. They were meant to frighten and to demonstrate Russia's power in a spectacular way. The demonstration could have been meant for many different people — for the world at large, and especially the uncommitted countries; for the Russian people and for critics at home, as a sign that Mr. Khrushchev was not being "soft" towards the West; and for Mao Tse-tung as a proof that even China's hundreds of millions could not count on surviving a thermo-nuclear war.

The Pull Is Strong

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

THE Liberals expect that quite a few of their ex-cabinet ministers may try to stage a comeback in the next election campaign. Others, having been retired by the electorate, seem disposed to let things stay that way.

Former prime minister Louis S. St. Laurent may do a bit of campaigning here and there. But he has indicated that he won't seek re-election to the Commons.

Certain other members of St. Laurent cabinets have never left the political arena. Opposition Leader Lester Pearson, ex-foreign affairs minister, tops the list. Others are ex-health minister Paul Martin, ex-transport minister Lionel Chevrier and Hon. Paul Hellyer, former associate minister of national defence, and last, but by no means least, former immigration minister J. W. Pickersgill.

All of these have started their election campaigning early.

The Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, one of the most astute politicians Canada has produced in many years and a former minister of agriculture, shows no sign of returning to the political wars. But with an old campaigner like Mr. Gardiner, you can never be sure.

Hon. Milton F. Gregg, former minister of labor, now serving abroad in a United Nations post, won't be back.

Neither will the former minister of justice, Hon. Stuart Garson. When he was defeated, he made it clear that he was out of the picture for good. That decision stands.

* * *

Ex-public works minister Robert Winters has been reported earlier as interested in returning to Parliament. He has been mentioned, in fact, as a potential future leader of the Liberal party. But informants say that if he tries to stage a comeback, it won't likely be in the next election, but in the one after. He now heads one of the largest Canadian uranium companies.

The Liberals are still hopeful that Hon. Hugues Lapointe can be induced to return. He's had more cabinet experience than most of the eligibles and last served at one and the same time as postmaster general and minister of veterans affairs. But he may prove to be more interested in a foreign post available to him.

Hon. Jean Lesage, former minister of northern affairs, is now out of the picture as premier of Quebec. There are many who see him as a future Liberal party leader. But not yet.

Ex-finance minister Walter Harris, however, once mentioned as a possible Liberal party leader, has never regarded his retirement from politics as more than temporary. He is expected to seek election when the next opportunity presents itself.

* * *

It is no secret that the Liberals would like to have the Hon. James Sinclair back in the House of Commons. The former minister of fisheries, who revelled in the heavy going, would have been quite as useful in opposition as in government. But Mr. Sinclair's business associations in British Columbia are such that his return is regarded as extremely unlikely — for the time being at least. His ex-confreres have noted as significant, however, that he still feels the pull of federal politics and rarely passes up an opportunity to visit his old friends in Ottawa to keep in touch.

Mr. Sinclair is another who has, at one time or another, been mentioned as a leadership contender.

Liberal party headquarters assumes that ex-defence minister Ralph Campney won't be back. Although his wide experience with federal politics made him extremely useful in the old Liberal cabinet, his heart never seemed to be in politics. In addition, his health has not been good.

The former minister of mines and technical surveys, Hon. George Prudham, isn't likely to contest an Alberta constituency. Like Mr. Campney, he never seemed to feel entirely at home in the hurly-burly of national politics and had decided to abandon the field voluntarily before the 1957-58 Tory deluge.

Another former minister of transport, Hon. George Marler, has abandoned the federal for the provincial field.

* * *

No one can be quite sure just how much weight is carried by even the most vehement protests of a desire to remain in retirement.

One former cabinet minister who was defeated in 1957 and who made an immediate decision not to seek re-election, told me later that the decision was one of the most difficult to maintain in his entire experience.

"Even when you are convinced that retirement from active party politics is the only course open to you," he said, "the temptations to change it are numerous and strong once a new election campaign starts. Several times during the preparations for the 1958 campaign, I found myself on the verge of running again. I resisted the temptation only with the greatest difficulty."

That's why those who really enjoy politics, at whatever cost to their personal lives, find it so difficult to stay in retirement however persuasive the practical reasons for retirement may be.

Albert Luthuli

'If I Were Free . . .'

By MARY BENSON from Durham

"IF I were free," Chief Luthuli said, "I would like to have lots of house meetings. I would stretch myself out (opening wide his arms) to go and meet farmers in Rustenburg, say. Never mind if they hit me with chairs as in Pretoria."

But ex-Chief Albert Luthuli, formerly president of South Africa's banned African National Congress, awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for 1960, is not free. South Africa's white government restricts him to his home district of Groutville, near Stanger in Natal, and he is forbidden to attend any meetings.

"I would not miss the opportunity except for the damn ban — excuse my language." And his glowing laugh dispelled the momentary anger. "I must say I have been fortunate to be within my own area, but even so you feel cut off from the stream of political thinking. You are cut off from what you like—contact with people.

"Of course the isolation is relieved by colleagues coming to see you. But after all when you claim to represent the views of the people you mustn't fall into the mistake of thinking your own views are their views.

"Meeting them really gives an insight into their feeling, and then your own views are corrected and you are able to plan things more realistically. Besides, contact with people keeps your spirits up."

It is hard to imagine Albert Luthuli's spirits being low. Not only now, when the marvel of being awarded the Nobel Peace Prize has rejoiced him and made him both humble and proud but after every conversation I have had with him since we met early in the fourth African treason trial (he was one of those named) I have come away feeling renewed and uplifted.

In the past few days he has had dozens of talks and telephone calls, yet he remains unharried. To each encounter he somehow comes fresh and deeply attentive. Often he engagingly turns the tables and questions the interviewer.

Through interviews runs a theme. "I think they gave me the Nobel Peace Prize because they quite correctly believe I was leader of a liberation movement that pursued no violence.

"I think so. The credit is not mine at all: my regime of the former African National Congress inherited policies that go back fifty years, which I have been happy to carry out.

"You take the policy of being non-racial. If Congress had followed a racialist line I would not have been a member. No, oh no. Some of our friends seem not to understand our outlook, though one is happy to find that in some territories to the north political parties are now "mixed." We all stand for non-racial democracy where color is irrelevant."

Luthuli is aware of the appeal of anti-whiteism.

"If one wanted to be a cheap popular leader the cry, 'Let's drive the white man out!' would catch on like wildfire."

* * *

I asked him when he began to think in terms of non-violence. His eyes closed tight as he perused the past — a characteristic gesture. "I wouldn't say that there was ever a time when I consciously decided. But I felt during the defiance campaign when Congress led eight thousand volunteers to prison, and I feel indeed in present circumstances, that the non-violent method—even unclothing it of any moral consideration—is the most effective and practical in our situation. But make no mistake non-violence is militant."

I asked if, in view of the prolonged and bitter frustration, an Angola situation could arise in South Africa.

He replied deliberately: "Would you expect people to start questioning and asking how long will these white men take advantage of our seeming docility? If the oppressed people here ever come to indulge in violent ways that would be reaction against a policy of government in suppressing them. However much you may disagree with them, you cannot blame them."

We were interrupted by a telephone call from London. He was enchanted by this. "As clear as anything, as clear as anything!" he called with a gust of laughter. He longs to visit London.

Over sweet tea he spoke of Bishop Reeves of Johannesburg, expelled last year by the South African government as an undesirable immigrant, and whom he regards "really as a father."

"That man, what he did for us!"

When I mentioned that some former Congress people had been more loyal to the bishop than some of his own church people, he said, "If the church only knew what Reeves, Scott, Huddleston, Collins have done for the church!"

Luthuli believes Africans could contribute to Christian thinking what is native to them and compatible with Christian principles.

"Things are moving fast to heathenism," he said. "Yet in its own field, not even the political field, the church is not at all aggressive enough. One does humbly feel concerned about it."

It is heartening to see such a man rewarded.

Nobody Knows

By GREGORY CLARK

MY family is thinking of getting rid of our TV set, all on my account. This is not due to my addiction to it, to the neglect of my work. The reverse is the case. I disregard the TV shamefully, spending my evenings unsociably up in my den until such time as I hear a scream or a pistol shot down in the living room.

Whereupon, I lay my book down and descend to the living room and join my family circle. They are knitting, or playing cards, or else just chatting casually while, on the TV bright amidst them, a thrilling drama is being enacted.

"Who," I interrupt them, "fired the shot? Who is that lying dead over there in the corner? What's the girl doing with the gun in her hand? What's it all about . . .?"

I am turned upon indignantly by one and all.

"If you want to watch the TV," they declare, "move it up to your den. Nobody's watching it here."

Then what was it on for?

Nobody knows. Nobody noticed it was on.

With the Classics

Well had the boding tremblers learned to trace
The day's disasters in his morning face;
Full well they laughed, with counterfeited glee,
At all his jokes, for many a joke had he;
Full well the busy whisper, circling round,
Conveyed the dismal tidings when he frowned;
Yet he was kind, or, if severe in aught,
The love he bore to learning was in fault.
The village all declared how much he knew—
'Twas certain he would write and cipher too;
Lands he could measure, terms and tides presage,
And e'en the story ran that he could gauge:
In arguing, too, the parson owned his skill,
For e'en though vanquished, he could argue still,
While words of learned length and thundering sound
Amazed the gazing rustics ranged around;
And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew
That one small head could carry all he knew.

'Can't Join Market'

Fleming Disputes Atlantic Alternative

EDMONTON (UPI) — Finance Minister Donald Fleming said yesterday it was impossible for Canada to join the European Common Market and there was no indication an Atlantic Trade Association would be formed.

Fleming said the Treaty of Rome, under which the European Common Market was formed, makes no provision for accepting non-European countries other than those overseas possessions under direct control of a member nation.

"Although the Treaty of Rome made provision for these associate memberships, there is not much value in them," he said.

The common market was proceeding toward political integration of its member nations, Fleming said. This factor could change political relationship between the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth, if Britain should join the European market.

The finance minister added common market political integration could lead to a certain loss of sovereignty to member nations.

"So far as the Commonwealth is concerned, there is no intention of accepting any diminishing of independence," he said.

"It is not reasonable to expect development of an Atlantic trade area unless the United States were to take the lead in such a project."

Fleming said Canada was interested in diversifying its markets as much as possible.

"We would be making a great mistake in attempting to concentrate trade in the Atlantic area at the expense of world-wide trade.

"One area is possible in developing trade between Europe and the western hemisphere."

This area, Fleming said, is the organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, and OECD exists "to further economic co-operation between member countries and also to channel common efforts in relation to foreign aid."

Fleming said OECD membership would not confine Canadian trade to the U.S. and Europe, but allow further expansion of trade.

Bennett 'Wants Quarrel'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal leader Ray Perrault described the B.C. power development situation Wednesday as a game of shameless political mismanagship.

He said that with a federal election a few months away, Premier Bennett would rather quarrel with Ottawa that achieve settlement.

Northwest Power

Seizure Praised

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) —Praise for B.C. in its stand on provincial ownership of the B.C. Electric was given Wednesday in a resolution to be introduced before the Northwest Public Power Association today.

The NPPA is composed of representatives from publicly-owned power producers. Board trustees come from B.C., Alaska, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

The resolution specifically commended Premier Bennett, the provincial government and the people of B.C. for "the takeover of B.C. Electric as a crown corporation."

It was not immediately known who introduced the resolution.

Flaming Fleming Speech:

Liberals Liars, NDP Split Socreds Nil, Papers Untrue

EDMONTON (CP)—"It's a pleasure to get back to a partisan basis," Finance Minister Fleming began a speech here yesterday, then called the Liberals liars, the NDP a divided party and Social Credit of no consequence in federal politics.

He told a public meeting of about 150 persons reports of the recent Accra conference "have been distinguished by their inaccuracy, confusion, and, in the case of the opposition, deliberate misrepresentation."

"The New Democratic Party," he said, "based on a shotgun marriage of farmers and labor, is split on the issue of NATO," and added the party was not democratic.

"As for the Social Credit party," he said, "it would be a disservice to elect them federally."

The press also came in for criticism from Mr. Fleming: "I wish the Winnipeg Free Press and the Western Sifton group of newspapers would be a little franker and a little closer to the truth" in reporting the government's position on tariffs.

Tories Say No

Liberals Given Cold Shoulder

SASKATOON (UPI) — The leader of Saskatchewan's Conservative party yesterday rejected a suggestion that the provincial byelection in the Weyburn constituency be limited to a two-way contest between the ruling CCF-New Democratic Party and the Liberals.

Liberal leader Ross Thatcher, a former member of the CCF said the Weyburn vote would be an acid test for the New Democratic Party in the province. He urged other parties not to enter the campaign to avoid splitting non-Socialist strength.

Conservative leader Martin Pederson said Mr. Thatcher had "no authority to set himself up as the voice of free enterprise."

"The reason we have a Socialist government is not because the majority are socialists but because they're anti-Liberal," Pederson said.

Heart Attack Kills Artist

KITCHENER (CP)—George Eitel, 55, artist and furniture designer, died Wednesday of a heart attack while walking near his home.

Hamburger Stands 'Ruin of Civilization'

PENTICTON (CP)—Warnett Kennedy says hamburger stands have destroyed civilization.

The bearded executive director of the B.C. Architectural Institute told the Canadian Club here: "All you have to do is take a trip to Seattle and see the miles upon miles of food stands lining the freeway into the city. They're ghastly."

Mr. Kennedy said Canadian residential subdivisions are a "sorry mess."

Students Not Sorry For Satire on John D

HALIFAX (CP) — The Dalhousie University students' council and the student newspaper, The Gazette, have refused to apologize to Memorial University of Newfoundland for an article which carried a veiled reference to a visit by Prime Minister Diefenbaker to Newfoundland.

Student council president Dick Thompson said the demand for an apology, contained in a petition from 300 Memorial students, was "preposterous."

PROMISED LAND

The article, carried in the Oct. 25 issue, was headed, "John the Baptist meets the multitude in the Promised Land."

Mr. Diefenbaker visited St. John's, Nfld., last month for the official opening of Memorial's new campus.

The editor of Memorial's student paper, The Muse, Peter Lebans, said the article had done "irreparable damage" to Newfoundland.

Mr. Thompson said the article was a satire on Mr. Diefenbaker's campaign techniques and not an attempt to make fun of Newfoundlanders.

Fares Cut Meals Set PGE Says

VANCOUVER (CP) — Reduced passenger fares between Vancouver and Prince George, complimentary meals for reserved seat holders and an extension of the seat reservation system were announced Wednesday by the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

J. S. Broadbent, general manager, did not say how much the fares would be reduced.

Meals on PGE passenger trains were cut off last year after a union dispute over the number of men to work on serving them. Now the meal service has been put in the hands of caterers.

Mr. Broadbent said the privilege of reserving seats, until now held to one car, has been extended to the entire train. Those not reserving seats, at an additional price, must pay for meals which will be served at seats as is done on airlines.

The changes are effective Sunday.

Umbrellas In Protest

OTTAWA (CP)—University of Ottawa students carrying umbrellas and placards paraded in front of the Soviet Embassy Wednesday to protest against nuclear tests in the U.S.S.R. The students said the umbrellas symbolized their concern over radioactive fallout resulting from the tests.

Man Fined $15,000 For Tax Frauds

double the amount of income tax owing.

"In this case, I am instructed by the Crown that I am to suggest the appropriate fine would be $2,500 on each count, or a total of $15,000," said the Crown counsel.

He said, "The Crown feels . . . the amount sufficient . . . as punishment of the accused for filing these ridiculous returns."

"Except for the adjectives, I have no objection," said Mr. Haldane.

CHEQUE MADE OUT

The trial achieved a mild anti-climax when no one could decide who would receive the fine on behalf of the income tax department.

"We have a cheque made out . . . who should it be made payable to?" asked Mr. Haldane.

It was agreed that Mr. Eng should make the non-certified cheque payable to the Receiver General of Canada.

WHO GETS IT?

Then came another minor crisis.

"Who gets it?" defence counsel asked. The problem was solved by Mr. Byers, who agreed to hold the cheque until disposition was arranged by federal authorities.

Wall Street Goes Gay On GM Extra

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market recorded one of its biggest gains of 1961 with more than 6,000,000 shares changing hands.

Volume swelled to 6,090,000 shares from 4,340,000 Monday and was the largest since April 4 when 7,080,000 shares were traded.

Among the new highs was 54, up 3½, for General Motors, which declared a 50-cent extra dividend—its first extra since 1955.

Steels gained but aircrafts and airlines tended to back away. There were soft spots among chemicals.

Standard Oil of New Jersey was up ⅝ at 47⅞.

Du Pont, which owns 63,000,000 shares of General Motors, spurted 7¾.

Dufault Surprise

Dufault, after reaching a new high of $7.75 in the morning, promptly fell to $6.85 but later recovered to $6.95.

Arcadia Uranium, Area Mines, Wiltsey-Coghlan and Mt. Wright all fell in the one to eight cent range. Canadian Dyno rose 17 cents to $2.20.

Industrials were paced by utilities, refining oils, steels and banks and financial institutions with a number of iss es reaching new highs. Typical among these were General Motors, Algoma Steel and Investors Syndicate A.

Trans-Canada Pipe Line was a victim of profit-taking after Tuesday's record-breaking rise and fell ½ to 24¾.

In senior base metals Ventures, Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting, International Nickel, Falconbridge, Geco and Denison all advanced ¼ to one point.

Dome, Kerr-Addison and Hollinger golds all lost ground.

Texaco Sags

MONTREAL (CP)—Stocks were irregularly mixed in heavy trading.

Trade Group Neutral About Market Move

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Fred Mathers, the recently elected president of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, told members during a visit to Victoria yesterday that his organization was neutral about Britain's joining the European Common Market.

"We do not feel that it is up to us to tell Britain what it should or should not do," he said.

CMA hopes that if the change-over is made that Commonwealth preference should be endangered as little as possible.

Mr. Mathers, who is president of Royal City Foods Ltd. and Delnor Frozen Foods Ltd. of New Westminster, made a tour of Yarrows shipyard after addressing the local CMA members at lunch.

STABILIZER AT WORK

The federal government in an effort to stabilize interest rates and the long term bond market announced yesterday it had cancelled $142,853,500 of its own bonds. They are chiefly of the 4¼ per cent 1972 and 4½ per cent 1983 issues.

Over $60,000,000 of the cancelled bonds have been bought on the open market out of the government's purchase fund of $100,000,000 set up in the June budget, and another $82,000,000 were bonds held in the government's securities investment account.

Last month the government cancelled $200,000,000 of long term bonds held by the unemployment insurance fund and substituted them with special three per cent non-marketable government bonds.

The moves are part of the government's debt management program outlined in the June budget.

When the dam is completed the bridge will be dissembled and the parts re-used as permanent short span bridges in the area.

Western Bridge is a division of Canada Iron Foundries Ltd.

New Motel Opposed

NANAIMO—Malaspina Hotel manager Ray Knight says there is sufficient hotel accommodation in Nanaimo and many rooms go unused most of the year.

Knight is spearheading the Nanaimo Hotel and Motel Operators' fight against a new motel to be built by the Pearson Bridge, at the corner of Comox and Terminal.

Knight stated "We will put our objections before city council."

The motel is to be built on land sold by the city.

Backers of the scheme are a group in the United States, owners of the "Travelodge" chain.

They plan to put an 80-room motor hotel on the site.

Trapped Farm Boy Cuts Off Own Leg

MARCELLUS, Mich. (UPI) —A 17-year-old farm youth who saved his own life by amputating his left leg with a jacknife when it got caught in a corn picker was in fair condition last night at Three Rivers Hospital here.

Loren Westphal of rural Marcellus was operating the corn picker in a field yesterday afternoon and the machine became clogged.

He tried to free the mechanism but his left arm and left leg got caught when the corn picker bolted.

DROVE TO FARM

He pulled his left hand loose, crawled 125 yards to a tractor and drove to the nearest farm house.

Nobody was home. The youth went inside and telephoned his mother who summoned an ambulance.

Doctors at Three Rivers Hospital were forced to do further amputation on the leg and also had to amputate Westphal's left hand.

The youth was still in deep shock, but doctors said his condition was fair.

LONDON (AP) — A British dentist Wednesday urged children not to brush their teeth. He recently entered the Merced County Hospital but frequently sneaked off.

"I go back there only when I don't feel the overwhelming need for liquid nourishment," he explained.

Ailing Family Back In Poisonous Home

VICTORIA BEACH, Man. (UPI)—The Ronald Monkman family went back home Wednesday to the house where they were partially paralyzed twice this year from thalium poisoning.

The entire family of five lost their hair and three of them became temporarily paralyzed last summer and again in late September. The Monkman's two daughters, Trudy, 12, and Ronalda, 9, had to be placed in hospital. For a time lived in an iron lung.

RAT POISONS

An exhaustive investigation by scientists failed to turn up the source of the poisoning. Thalium is a heavy metal used primarily in rat poisons and insecticides.

Monkman returned home two weeks ago to act as a human guinea pig to see if the poison still existed in the one-storey frame house, 45 miles north of Winnipeg.

ALMOST NONE

He suffered slight poisoning effects, but a week later the signs had receded and last weekend tests showed almost none.

The family will remain under observation and materials from the house will continue to be tested to isolate the thalium source.

Shop Theft Charge Draws $750 Bail

City prosecutor Angus Smith declined an invitation yesterday to discuss the reasons for his request for substantial bail for a man charged in police court with theft.

"There are a great many reasons why bail should be substantial," said the prosecutor.

"Why — what reasons?" snapped defendant James Scoular, charged with theft of a Cowichan Indian sweater from Northland Novelties, 905 Government.

Magistrate J. A. Byers set bail at $750 and remanded Scoular to Nov. 13 to set the date for trial.

Fire May Cost $100,000,000

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Bel-Air-Brentwood fire, worst in Los Angeles history, destroyed at least 456 homes and damaged at least 50 other buildings besides destroying almost 6,000 acres of valuable watershed, the fire department reported today.

NOT INCLUDED

Loss from this fire alone may run from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000, according to unofficial estimates averaging loss of homes at $60,000 each. The number of homes burned was expected to reach more than 500 after final survey. Personal property and watershed were not included in the $60,000 average.

STILL BLAZING

The fire technically was contained Tuesday night. But a second major blaze — a fiery "twin" that burned more acreage but only nine homes—was still out of control yesterday. Borate bombers and helicopters carrying two-men crews to hot spots were used in efforts to contain and control the 8,400-acre Topanga Canyon blaze.

Star Stirs Ashes

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — "Everything that I treasured was in this beautiful house and now it's gone."

So said Zsa Zsa Gabor as she stood in the ashes of her $275,000 Bel-Air home before dawn Wednesday and surveyed the desolate scene in the glow of a policeman's flashlight.

"There is no longer any reason for me to remain in California."

Aided by friend Robert Straile she tried to find a floor safe in which she said most of her jewelry had been secreted but after digging through the ashes she was unable to find it.

Miss Gabor said her house was insured. "But I lost $1,000,000 worth of possessions that can never be replaced."

She added: "It is just like a funeral. Everyone loved my beautiful house so much."

Dope Trick Told

NEW YORK (CP) — A federal court was told Wednesday how an international narcotics ring, involving three Toronto men, used a Brooklyn bakery to break open trunks and valises containing packages of smuggled heroin.

Matteo Palmeri, the bakery owner, testified that in August, 1960, he was told by Albert Agueci, 39, of Toronto, to meet a passenger at a New York pier. He said the passenger was Rocco Scopellitti, 26, Toronto.

Palmeri said he and Scopellitti took a trunk to the bakery. Another man was waiting there and "they took the trunk into the bakery and ripped the bottom open and took 10 packages out of it."

Palmeri was the first witness to testify at the trial of 12 men charged with conspiring to violate the narcotics law. The accused are linked with a ring that allegedly smuggled more than $150,000,000 worth of heroin into the U.S. from Canada and Italy in the last 10 years.

Agueci is a fugitive. Among the 12 on trial are Scopellitti and Vito Agueci, 41, Albert's brother.

Junior Hockey Cross-Town 'War' Could Strangle Game at Its Birth

WHITEY FORD

JACK NICKLAUS

By JIM TAYLOR

Behind-the-scenes bickering may strangle junior hockey in Greater Victoria before it even gets started.

A check into the foggy junior hockey picture yesterday produced two major points:

● There are not one, but two junior "A" teams in operation, one at Esquimalt Sports Centre, the other at Memorial Arena.

● There are almost as many charges and countercharges being hurled between the two leagues as there are junior players to fill them.

Judging from talks with all parties concerned, the trouble stems from a combination of things—the rivalry (denied by both) between the Sports Centre and Memorial Arena, and the fact (undeniable) that there are only a limited number of junior calibre players available.

Any way you choose to look at it, it's an unhealthy mixture. Yesterday the pot simmered a little more.

BRUINS UNHAPPY

News that Memorial Arena manager Jack Morgan has built a junior team, now playing intact in the Independent Athletic Association's league, brought heated criticism from the men behind Esquimalt Bruins.

"We had a gentleman's agreement that Victoria would stay out of junior hockey this year and leave it to us," said team manager Jimmy Bryant.

HAD CHANCE

"They had their chance to form a team and said they wouldn't. Now we get a sponsorship from Boston Bruins, which they could have had and turned down, and suddenly they want to get into the act with a team of their own when there aren't enough players for two teams."

According to Bryant and Sports Centre manager Joe Iannarelli, plans for a B.C. or Vancouver Island junior league were dropped when the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association said it would not sponsor a team because of expenses and because there were not enough junior calibre players around.

PICKED UP

"Both of us were holding practices and no one was getting anywhere," said Iannarelli. "But when Victoria said they were out, our practices picked up and we got support from Boston Bruins.

"I've always fought for an Island league, but Victoria stalled and we haven't got one. But once they said they weren't in the junior picture, they shouldn't have gotten in."

Meanwhile, back at the Arena:

Jack Morgan, who first proposed the plan for junior hockey to the B.C. Arena Managers' Association, sprang to the defence of his team.

'ALL BY MYSELF'

"The Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association said it would not put a junior team in. But the Association has nothing to do with this team. I registered it originally myself with the registrar of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association. When the minor hockey people said they weren't interested, I formed the team myself. It's been going in the IAA league since Sept. 25, and it was registered before the Esquimalt team.

"We didn't announce our plans because we didn't know where we stood. We turned down the Boston sponsorship because we haven't got a team that rates such support, and we did not put the team in a league because I would never enter a team if it isn't of adequate calibre."

MORGAN FIRES

Then Morgan levelled his own guns in the direction of Esquimalt.

"They say we're trying to tempt their players to play for us. I've told all the boys at our practice they can play for them or for us, and to make up their minds. We have approached no players.

"What are they worried about, anyway? They claim they get 30 or 40 players to a workout; I get 12. If there are that many juniors around, how can they say there aren't enough for two teams?

MORE KIDS

"They promise their kids the moon out there—trips and everything else — and they haven't even got them signed. They've got new uniforms, they've got money from the Bruins, and they've got more kids than I have. How can my team hurt them?

"I can only promise my players sweaters and socks, and the socks don't even fit."

TWO EXHIBITIONS

There is no indication that the bickering is over. Both teams are planning exhibition games with Nanaimo's junior team, and both plan to enter provincial playoffs at the end of the season.

Meanwhile, the barbs fly back and forth between Victoria and Esquimalt, damaging only the junior hockey both sides are trying to promote.

Benevolence from Bruins

Speaking Briefly

Nicklaus Turns Pro; Ford Best in Majors

Jack Nicklaus, 21, an Ohio State University student who is regarded by many as the foremost American amateur golfer since Bobby Jones, announced Wednesday that he is turning professional.

Nicklaus, who was U.S. amateur champion in 1959 and 1961, says he has few amateur worlds left to conquer, and "it would be unfair to my family" not to accept several lucrative offers. He recently became a father.

* * *

Meanwhile, an "old pro" of the sports world, New York Yankee pitcher Whitey Ford, had his 1961 season recognized by major league baseball writers who selected him for the Cy Young award, given to the major leagues' outstanding pitcher.

Ford, 33, won 25 games and lost only four for the pennant-winning Yankees. He pitched 32 scoreless innings against Cincinnati as New York won the series.

* * *

HARRY LUMLEY, 35, is an old pro no longer. Now he's an old amateur. He has received his amateur status from the NHL central registry office and now can pursue the tag end of his goaltending career with Collingwood, an Ontario intermediate team. He played with Toronto, Detroit, Boston and Chicago in his NHL salad days . . . Australians Kel Nagle and Frank Phillips beat Darryl Welch and Stan Leonard by five strokes in a four-ball match for $560 in Brisbane yesterday . . . New Westminster quarterback Mike Davies and centre Don Ennis will be hampered by injuries when Royals play Winnipeg in the western Canada intermediate football final in Winnipeg Saturday.

* * *

JOHNNY LONGDEN, who admits to 55 summers, will ride T.V. Lark in Saturday's International horse race at Laurel, Md. Eddie Arcaro will be up on Kelso, the other U.S. entry in the eight-horse field . . . Quarterback Bobby Layne has resumed practices with Pittsburgh Steelers after being idle for about a month with an arm injury . . . Sam Snead, back in the good graces of the PGA and one of the favorites for the Mexican Open that begins today, has been named president of a proposed chain of "par-three" golf courses that would span the U.S. . . . Calgary Stampeder hockey coach Alf Pike is thinking about trading some of his more inept forwards and did not heistate in telling them so yesterday.

Dorohoy To Play Again

Eddie Dorohoy is once more a happy hockey player. He's going to get a chance to play hockey again.

A Los Angeles radio station last night reported that the colorful centre, who lives in Victoria in the off-season, was flying south to join the Blades of the Western Hockey League.

Dorohoy has been sidelined with leg troubles and legal troubles for almost two years.

The Los Angeles report had it that Dorohoy was trying out with the Blades for a two-week period and if he proves satisfactory, a player and cash will be sent to Vancouver for his services. The Canucks own his contract.

BEHIND THE GLASS

By Jim Tang

CONSOLS PLAN SET: Plans for Consols playdowns in the area governed by the Pacific Coast Curling Association will be changed from last season, it was decided at a meeting of the PCCA at the Victoria Curling Club on Sunday.

Each of the three zones—Vancouver Island, Lower Mainland and Fraser Valley—will declare two finalists who will meet in a double-knockout series at a Fraser Valley club yet to be selected.

No one has been very satisfied with last season's three-rink playoff and while the change may have been made in any case, it practically became assured when the Fraser Valley zone, which stretches from New Westminister to Hope, requested that it be permitted two finalists to facilitate zone playdowns, which would be divided into Western and Eastern divisions.

Some thought was given to an eight-rink final with the two zones with the most affiliated curlers to get three finalists but this was discarded to avoid the chance of disturbing the harmony which exists in the PCCA.

The Island zone finals will be held in Nanaimo, the Fraser Valley playdowns will be at the Abbotsford and Richmond clubs and the Lower Mainland finalists will be decided at the various clubs in the Greater Vancouver area.

The six finalists will play off on Jan. 27 and 28 and meet the champion from the British Columbia Curling Association, for the right to represent the province in the Dominion championships, at a Greater Vancouver club in a best-of-three final, probably on Feb. 12 and 13.

* * *

SIGNAL HONOR: The international event which is to be a feature of the first annual Pacific Coast Curling Association bonspiel, at the Victoria Curling Club Feb. 5-11, is designed to pay tribute to those who have done the most for curling in their areas.

It will be a three-draw, total-points series between six American rinks and six Canadian rinks, two from each of the three PCCA zones. The zone representatives will be decided by a playoff. Each club will be asked to nominate eight curlers to form two rinks for the zone playoff.

Nominees must not be less than 40 years of age and will be selected on the basis of their contributions to curling. Each of the 48 curlers who take part in the event will receive a special momento of the occasion, the eight members of the two-rink team which scores the most points will get a replica of the plaque, which will go to the club whose rink came up with the most points during its three games.

The event will be played off during the last four days of the PCCA bonspiel.

* * *

"MR. CURLING" BACK: Starting next week on these pages will be another series of articles by Ken Watson, curling's top writer.

They will appear weekly and will be of particular interest to tyro and veteran alike. The series is entitled "Curling to Win." Watson will concentrate on the fundamentals of curling strategy but will also give his interpretation of curling styles and trends.

* * *

TORONTO BY PLENTY: Winnipeg has lost its place as the curling centre of the world with Toronto taking over by a good margin. The addition of 33 more sheets since the end of last season gives Metro Toronto no fewer than 143 sheets of curling ice. But the rest of province is also still caught up in the boom which is likely to make, if it hasn't already, Ontario the leading curling province. The Ontario Curling Association experts that registrations this season will number more than 30,000 curlers from 236 clubs.

* * *

ALL BY ITSELF: While Toronto has more sheets of ice than any city, to Calgary belongs the honor of having the biggest curling club in the world. During the past summer, the upstairs of the huge Big Four building was made ready for curling and there are now 48 sheets under one roof.

And they are all busy, too. No less than 209 leagues, embracing close to 10,000 curlers, do their curling in the Big Four. Revenue for the season is estimated at $230,000, almost $5,000 a sheet.

* * *

EXTRA END: Victoria Curling Club lost a valued member recently when Sid Thomson received a promotion which will force him to move to Vancouver. . . . Vancouver's Totem Bonspiel not only filled its maximum quota of 160 rinks well before deadline but has 10 rinks on a waiting list hoping for unlikely concellations. Basil Hills of Calgary, Bert Robinson of Edmonton and Butch Dyberg of Wetaskawin, are the only entrants from the Prairies with the vast majority of the rinks from the Lower Mainland and Fraser Valley. . . Bill Price, who led off for Matt Baldwin on two Canadian title-winning rinks, is skipping his own Consols entry this season . . . curling lost a popular and well-known member of the fraternity when Frank Wolfe died recently in Vancouver. . . . Rollie Miles is another football star who has taken to curling, and he'll play this season for Fred Fekete, one of Edmonton's top-notch skips.

Next games: Friday—Seattle at Edmonton; Portland at Vancouver.

Chuck Holmes scored late in the third period in Edmonton last night to give the Flyers a 2-1 victory over second-place Seattle Totems and increase their lead to four points in the northern division of the Western Hockey League.

Holmes' goal came at the 14.12 mark, and ruined a fine effort by rookie goalie Jim McLeod, who blocked 36 shots to keep the Totems within range and was the game's outstanding player.

Ed Joyal had put Edmonton ahead in the first period and Don Chiupka tied it up in the second.

Portland Buckaroos also fattened their lead in the southern division, beating San Francisco Seals, 3-0, as Bruce Gamble posted his first shutout of the season before 7,169 Portland fans.

The Bucks' big guns were silenced last night, but the little shots took over. Tom McVie, Des Moroney and Dale Rolfe handled the scoring.

B.C. Lions Charge Document Stolen

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police Wednesday night were investigating a theft complaint laid by B.C. Lions of the Western Football Conference.

Herb Capozzi, Lions' general manager, told police a document detailing club expenditures for the month of October was stolen from the club's downtown office. He said there was no evidence of a break-in.

Capozzi said figures contained in the document were published later in the Vancouver Sun. Sport columnist Dick Beddoes, in whose column the information appeared, said Wednesday he received the information by telephone and didn't know the document had been stolen.

Among the items listed in Beddoes' column as coming from the expenditures list were: $500 to former University of Missouri halfback Norris Stevenson for "salary advance" for 1962; $22,500 to Sutton, Braidwood and Co., "re Wayne Robinson"; $73.73 to William McMahan for "entertaining Calgary executives"; $174.67 for "directors' meeting expenses"; $41.60 for a subscription to the Minneapolis Star Tribune, and $2.17 for producing a "showcard" for a special meeting.

City Junior Cagers Wallop Collegians

One game does not a season make, but judging from last night's performance by First United, Victoria has another high-grade junior men's basketball team on its hands.

United, a new entry made up primarily of graduates from last year's high school teams, met Victoria University Juniors at Mount View High, and snowed them under, 95-31.

Leading the way was ex-Esquimalt Docker star Bruce Mitchell with 29 points. Kerry Greenwood scored 19, and John McKeachie added 13. Ken McCartney scored 14 for the losers.

It was the second game of the season in the four-team junior league. In Monday's opener, Victoria Optimists beat Chinese Students, 58-21.

Action also opened last night in the senior "B" men's league, and Kings Hotel was impressive in a 54-32 victory over Chinese Students.

Unitas' Finger Cured

NEW YORK (AP) — The question of what's wrong with Johnny Unitas of Baltimore Colts has been answered.

The answer is nothing that a healthy middle finger on his passing hand won't cure. Unitas proved as much Sunday.

He tossed four touchdown passes for the seventh time in his six-year National Football League career, completed 22 of 35 tosses, had only one interception and was in command in Baltimore's 45-21 triumph over Western Conference leading Green Bay Packers, who had jolted Colts 45-7 earlier.

Unitas had struggled through the first half of the season with an undisclosed bruised middle finger on his passing hand.

Unitas' performance Sunday lifted him from sixth to fourth among NFL passers. Sonny Jurgensen of Philadelphia is the leader.

Boston Salvages 4-4 Draw From Game They Had in Bag

NEW YORK—Boston Bruins salvaged a point from a game they seemed to at one time have had in the bag Wednesday night when reliable Don McKenney tipped in a passout with only 18 seconds left to give his club a 4-4 tie with New York Rangers.

Result moved the Rangers, who have played four more games, into a tie with Montreal Canadiens for the National League lead. The Bruins remained in last place.

With rookie Don Head playing brilliantly in goal to handle all 12 shots sent his way, the Bruins took a 2-0 lead in the first period, started the third period with a 3-1 lead. The Rangers rallied in the final 20 minutes, led by Andy Bathgate, and finally went ahead with just more than four minutes left.

Bathgate, who regained the individual scoring lead with his effort, set up the Rangers' first two third-period goals, scored the third on a power play with a tremendous 40-foot shot.

Bathgate's effort was more than matched for the Bruins by Doug Mohns, the one-time defenceman who has developed into one of his club's best forwards, since being moved up front for full-time duty.

Mohns figured in on all four of his club's goals. He set up linemate Bob Beckett twice, scored on a power-play in the first period just as Andy Hebenton was scrambling out from the penalty box, then gave McKenney the chance for the tying goal.

Boston penalties gave the Rangers their chance to rally. Camille Henry got the score to 2-3 early in the third period while Leo Boivin was off and Bathgate scored while John Bucyk was serving time.

At Seattle Lawsuit

Adams Just Laughs

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League said Wednesday the club would sue Detroit Red Wings for $40,000 unless the National Hockey League team honors a contract for that amount.

Marv Burke, Seattle president, said the Red Wings had agreed to pay $20,000 each for "the right of purchase" of Marc Boileau, a wing, and Les Hunt, a defenceman. Both were with the Totems three seasons.

Boileau was reclaimed by Detroit a year ago and farmed out to the American Hockey League. Hunt was drafted by New York Rangers, through Detroit, for $20,000 and is playing with Los Angeles of the WHL.

Both had been sent to Seattle by Detroit as part of a deal for tie-ups with two Seattle farm clubs.

When informed in Detroit of Burke's statement, Jack Adams general manager of the Red Wings, chuckled, then remarked:

"You can just say that I laughed about it."

More Walls Needed!

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRBS

The fact that houses have only four outside walls I find extremely frustrating at times, for there are so many excellent wall shrubs and climbers I would like to grow, and no more walls on which to grow them.

This frustrated feeling reaches an all-time high every time I visit a certain friend of mine who has the lovely evergreen Magnolia grandiflora growing as a wall shrub in an angle where a south-facing and west-facing walls come together. Actually a tree—this is the Magnolia of the Old South—my friend has branches trained to stretch out along the two walls, some 20 feet tall, producing each year in late summer and early fall a profusion of huge waxy ivory-white blooms 10 inches across.

* * *

I am well satisfied with the present occupant of our east-facing wall—the lovely climbing rose Mermaid, with single-flowered blooms in pale yellow almost the size of a saucer—but if I had another east wall, I could grow Garrya elliptica as a wall shrub. Garrya is evergreen, blooming in midwinter, and the trick is to get the male form, which has much finer catkins than the female. Like the evergreen Magnolia, it is worthwhile to give Garrya a little winter protection for its first couple of years in the form of a plastic screen.

The Camellia lends itself admirably to training against a wall, and being evergreen, it looks good all year round. The trick here is to grow it against a west-facing wall, for the greatest danger to Camellia blooms is the morning sun falling upon flower buds which have taken a bit of frost through the night.

A west wall, shaded from the morning sun, gives the buds a chance to thaw out slowly. I should warn you, though, that the soil at the foot of a west wall tends to become very dry in summer, so your wall-trained Camellia will need plenty of spongy organic matter in the soil to retain moisture, plus occasional deep watering, plus a surface mulch of peat moss or half-rotted leaves.

* * *

For a south or west-facing wall, I could go for Ceanothus in a big way. Not the leaf-losing kind like Gloire de Versailles, for lovely as they are, their habit of growth is more like a lilac, not quite suitable for training against a wall. My choice would be one of the evergreen kinds like Sierra Blue or Impressus, with small shiny green leaves and rich blue flowers.

These evergreen varieties of Ceanothus are just a little on the tender side, needing the protection of a warm wall for reliable performance. Fortunately, they thrive under the knife, and for best results their flowering side shoots should be cut back hard as soon as they have finished their display.

Our old friend Japonica, the Japanese Flowering Quince, responds also to close pruning and makes a gorgeous wall shrub. Being perfectly hardy, Japonica may be grown on any wall, even one facing north, although it seems to have some mild preference for morning sun. You have to take into consideration the color of your wall, though, for the bright red, crimson and orange-scarlet kinds are wasted against red brick, although set off to perfection against a white or cream wall.

* * *

The Bigonia or Trumpet Vine is another plant I crave if I only had another big south-facing wall. This is a showy, tropical-looking vine bearing huge orange-red trumpets in September. Radican is the hardiest and safest, but if you like to live dangerously, plant Grandiflora, which has much larger flower clusters.

No Virtuous Girl This Year

The tiny village of Champagne-sur-Oise in France annually holds a contest to determine the most virtuous girl in town. This year no girl entered. Well, the prize isn't much—90 cents—but that wasn't the principal consideration for the lack of interest.

Nadine Labelle, 18, who won the award last year, said she's sorry she did. "It was my mother who put me up as candidate," she said. "My classmates kidded me when they found out."

That's the way it goes. The word is passed around the playground or the candy store or the local saloon or wherever they handle these status symbols in France that virtue is out. Virtue, as a matter of fact, is pretty Non-U all over the world. I don't mean simply that it's not worth competing for. I mean it's a positive disadvantage to have it.

* * *

Nadine is lucky she only was kidded for her virtue. Treatment can get much rougher. Some cops have tried honesty when the rest of the force was on the take and the reward for virtue, they discovered, was a beat as close to Outer Siberia as top brass could manage. Of course virtue in city hall has always been a drag. Like a limp in a halfback, you could manage with it, but not easily.

* * *

But virtue among 18-year-old girls has generally been considered a plus and never exactly ran amuck among 18-year-olds. It was a beauty mark, not a blemish. A girl could wear her virtue like a banner in the old days. In recent years almost the worst thing you could call a girl is professional virgin. She'd be ruined—a word that in former times was used quite differently.

* * *

Virtue and virginity are not the same things at all. Virtue has a lot of other faces. Honesty, for instance. We must pretend that honesty is the best policy when quite clearly some of the richest and most respected people are crooks.

No doubt about it, virtue is a terrible handicap. Even if you have it, you don't want to go noising it about and you certainly don't want to enter any contests. You might win—and what would the neighbors say?

CBS-TV has a new program called "Calender" every weekday. The other day Harry Reasoner delivered a little editorial which I found most provocative and highly unusual for television. Reasoner was talking about books and he said:

"There's a certain kind of person who doesn't really like books—children's books or grownup books. He wants to launder, screen, and censor them so they can't possibly do any harm or—of course—any possible good. He says books are all right if they don't say anything.

* * *

"This kind of person is sometimes a pastor or a congressman, but unfortunately he is just as apt to be a teacher or librarian. In the case of books for children, the worst kind of influence is that which says the books must be wholesome. Wholesome to a certain kind of educater's mind is synonymous with uninteresting.

There was a bit more, all of it arguing on behalf of intelligent literacy which television hardly ever does. I applaud it heartily.

Hollywood Today — By Sheilah Graham

'Dead' Simone Can't Go On

LONDON (NANA)—Laurence Harvey, in Hollywood, cabled Jimmy Woolf here. Don't let this go. If necessary I'll raise $100,000." It wasn't necessary. The British producer paid £50,000 ($140,000) for the movie rights to "Top of the Top," sequel to John Braine's Oscar-winning "Room at the Top," for which Jimmy paid a mere £5,000. "Top of the Top" carries on from where "Room" finished. Woolf told me at lunch. "Larry and Heather Sears will be starred again, also Sir Donald Wolfit as her rich father." Unfortunately Simone Signoret "died" in the original. A search is now on for a beautiful actress to play Harvey's extracurricular romance.

* * *

Kirk Douglas told me, "I purposely try to keep myself flexible. And I shall do 'The Secret List of Adrian Messenger' in Hollywood before my big one, 'Montezuma,' in Mexico."

* * *

Walter Wagner walks around Rome's cine citta with a "Cleopatra" button on his lapel. "It's the only way I can get on the set," he joked—or was it for real?

* * *

Young Robert Wagner is so much in love with Rome and Rome resident Marisa Donen that he is looking for a house there, and will settle for at least a year in the eternal city. If R. J. was ever carrying a torch for Natalie Wood, as reported, the ex-Mrs. Donen has extinguished the flame.

* * *

Poor Paula Prentiss! She is still recovering from her plane trip to London to attend the premiere of "Bachelor in Paradise," in which the just-married star has a role with Lana Turner and Bob Hope. Paula's plane was due at 7 in the morning. Because of fog, she didn't land until 4 in the afternoon, and had to rush to press interviews. Good thing she's so young.

* * *

Incidentally, I understand that Nasser changed his mind about allowing the "Cleo" company to film in Egypt. And I'm wondering what happens to the sets that were built there. Also to the sets that were built in London last year. And all that stuff in Hollywood! Well, just as long as it all adds up to a successful movie in the end.

* * *

With "Fanny" not doing as well as it should in England, there's now some question of whether Leslie Caron will star in "The L Shaped Room." The role of the unwed mother might be offered to blonde Hannanah York, now starring with Montgomery Clift, Susan Kohner and Larry Parks in "Freud."

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

Want to get rich in the stock market? All you have to do is go to a reputable stockbroker, take his advice to the letter and pretty soon you'll be rich. Or you'll have just as much money as before. Or you may lose your shirt.

This just about sums up what I got out of "You Only Have to Get Rich Once" by Walter Gutman (Dutton), the newest how-to book on the stock market.

I don't mean to say, however, that Mr. Gutman's book has no value. It has. Mr. Gutman is a wise, witty, well-informed man, full of surprising turns of mind. He's a sort of wonder boy of Wall Street and the author of a widely read weekly letter famous for serving up market tips together with remarks on modern literature, abstract art, women's fashions and whatever else happens to strike Mr. Gutman's fancy at the moment.

Lasted for Years

Thousands of well-heeled customers read his letter every week and buy the stocks he tells them to. If they didn't make a profit, Mr. Gutman would have vanished from Wall Street years ago.

Now it's all in a book and I enjoyed myself hugely reading about Freud, Red China and birth-control pills together with random remarks about accounting methods and what's behind the business cycle. I also learned something about the stock market.

To Mr. Gutman, the ups and downs of Wall Street are wholly irrational and there's no sense whatever in trying to dope it out by studying balance sheets and statistics.

The way to do it, he says, is to play the market by faith and by ear. You look around you at what's being liked by consumers, you listen to the talk on commuter trains and at cocktail parties, you visit giants and see company managers, watching like a hawk for little signs whether they're psychologically right for making their stockholders happy.

Who Buys Lunch?

Does the man like to spend money on his own lunch? Does his face light up when he's talking about expensive new projects? You watch for the signs, you listen to your inner voice and then you go back to your office and give orders to buy or sell.

Obviously this isn't something you or I can do in our spare time and, if you follow Mr. Gutman's advice, you'll leave the game strictly to the pros. This thing just isn't for you. "Market prices," Mr. Gutman writes, "are the result of an extremely complex mixture of exaggerated hopes and fears, careful calculations, personal ambitions and problems, inside information, outside intuition and inside and outside misinformation."

I guess if I ever get money enough to invest in stocks, I'll subscribe to Mr. Gutman's letter. He strikes me as a man who knows his business.

Cadet Band to Lead Company to Cenotaph

Members of headquarters company of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, led by the cadet corps pipe and drum band, will parade to the Cenotaph at the legislative buildings Saturday.

At completion of the regular service the company will parade to Pioneer Square for a special ceremony in memory of those of the regiment who failed to return.

Minister Announces

Top Tourist Year

OTTAWA (UPI)—A record tourist year for Canada in 1961 was predicted yesterday by Resources Minister Walter Dinsdale.

Te announced Nov. 27-29 as the dates for the annual federal-provincial tourist conference in Ottawa.

About 900,000 inquiries were handled by the federal travel bureau, an increase of 100,000 over the previous year. Total tourist spending was expected to top the 1960 figure of $420,000,000 he added.

Dinsdale said the premium on the U.S. dollar in relation to Canadian funds "is beginning to show desired results."

Sicily, the island off the toe of the Italian boot, covers 9,900 square miles with a population of 4,800,000.

$10,000 Bail Not Cut For Woman

VANCOUVER (CP) — Magistrate Oscar Orr yesterday refused to reduce bail of $10,000 for a 44-year-old woman charged with conspiring to bring Chinese into Canada illegally.

Defence counsel Dick Anderson said the bail was too high for the gravity of the case against Wong Nguk Ting, also known as Lila Chen.

She is already free on bail of $10,000.

Trouble Over Trews

TORONTO (CP) — In the northwest turret of Toronto's University Avenue Armories, a military tailor who has been sewing kilts for 15 years sadly shook his head.

Sam Sniderman, regimental tailor of the 48th Highlanders and an authority on Highland dress, couldn't understand reports from Winnipeg that a Scots militia unit wants to shed its kilts for the winter.

Members of the Winnipeg unit apparently are begging permission to wear tartan trews (trousers) to keep out cold prairie winds.

"Trews have none of the eye appeal of a kilt," objects Mr. Sniderman. "There's nothing to compare with the swing of a kilt when a regiment is on the march."

Mr. Sniderman, one of Canada's few kilt-makers, has never worn one.

"But they're not cold," he insists. "You can wear a pair of trunks underneath."

Mr. Sniderman has been making kilts for 16 years and it's a long time since anyone said, "Sam, you made the kilts too long."

"You wouldn't think I was cut out to be a kilt-maker. But after years of training under the late Sgt. Sandy Smith, from Aberdeen, and hearing his anecdotes about Scotland, I feel more Scottish than Jewish."

Student Pilot Bails Out Before Crash

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE (CP) — A 22-year-old student pilot ejected himself safely from an RCAF T-33 jet trainer yesterday before it plunged to the ground near a southern Manitoba farm.

FO Bruce Yake, formerly of Uxbridge, Ont., baled out about 20 minutes after taking off from the air force base here on a routine training mission. He suffered only "superficial" injuries.

The RCAF said reason for the crash has not been determined.

An unidentified farmer reported the crash and summoned local medical aid for the pilot.

Red Chevron Veterans Meet Today

Members of the Red Chevron Association, the famous veterans who held a vital gap in the line during the first German poison gas attack in 1915, will hold a meeting and smoker in the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Hall, at 7.30 p.m. today.

At least 30 veterans are expected to attend.

The organization is named after the red chevron insignia which was worn on the lower sleeve of soldiers engaged in an active theatre of war during 1914 and veterans who survived the first German poison gas attack April 22, 1915.

Guns to Fire At Ceremony

Minute guns at Remembrance Day ceremonies at the legislative buildings and in Esquimalt will be fired by 5th B.C. Medium Artillery Battery, a spokesman announced yesterday.

Battery commanding officer Maj. G. W. Archer said all members would parade in battle dress.

In the march past the saluting base, the battery will be preceded by its 35-piece brass and reed band.

Ottawa Speeds Shock Counters

OTTAWA (CP) — Two new instruments to measure the shocks to the earth caused by earthquakes and nuclear bombs are being installed in a rush program at the Dominion Observatory here, it was announced yesterday.

Help Calls Arrive By RCAF's Lifeline

Ships, aircraft and people in distress on the B.C. Coast will have a direct lifeline to the RCAF's rescue and co-ordination centre in Vancouver by December.

Calls for help to any of the marine radio stations at Bull Harbor, Alert Bay, Prince Rupert, Victoria, Sandspit, Cape Lazo, Tofino or Vancouver will be transferred directly to the rescue centre in Vancouver.

Previously marine radio stations had to relay messages from one to another until they reached Vancouver. Now all stations will be joined together by a special type of speaker with each continuously monitoring the circuit on its own speaker.

* * *

New System In December

* * *

The loudspeakers enable station operators to listen in on all operations and to break in on conversations to give or ask for information.

Should air-sea rescue or DOT marine agency offices at Prince Rupert and Victoria wish to speak to a foundering ship, each can extend the interphone "lifeline" to any one of the eight stations' ship-to-shore transmitters and operate it by remote control.

The interphone circuit is being installed by B.C. Telephone Co.

Dance or No Dance Allowed New Year's Eve?

B.C. attorney-general's department will make a ruling in the next day or so whether dancing will be permitted before midnight on New Year's Eve —which this year falls on a Sunday.

Several organinzations plan dances in the city for New Year's Eve.

New Restaurant?

Blaze Victim Seeks Backer

Operator of the Monterey Restaurant which was gutted by fire last week said yesterday he will rebuild the restaurant if he can find a financial backer.

Maurice Wincure said $140,000 insurance money will go to R. S. Olson who holds a mortgage for about 185,000. "I'm looking for a backer. I can go ahead if I can get someone to rebuild and take the new mortgage," said Mr. Wincure.

Mr. Wincure purchased the Monterey, at the corner of Douglas and Hillside, last March for $238,000.

When insurance papers were recovered from a safe in the ashes it was found the business was covered by only $140,000 insurance including equipment and stock.

Salvation Army

More Help to More

LT. COL. E. G. FITCH

The Salvation Army hostel — traditional last stand for indigents throughout the world —is broadening the base of its services to bring more help to more people.

So says Lt.-Col. E. G. Fitch of Toronto, secretary of the men's social services for Canada's Salvation Army, in Victoria yesterday for a one-day visit to the local hostel.

Lt.-Col. Fitch has some positive ideas about the Salvation Army's role in a changing social complex.

"In the old days," he said, "our department was concerned mainly with men who had no other place to go, nobody else to turn to.

"Now it's different. Most men who come to us for shelter and food pay their way because they are working but don't earn enough to handle the high cost of ordinary living."

The Salvation Army hostels across the nation can handle up to 3,000 men a night, Lt.-Col. Fitch said. In some cities, sleeping quarters are filled to capacity every night.

Others, including the Victoria hostel which sleeps 56 men, maintain an occupancy rate of about 80 per cent.

Increasing emphasis is being placed on finding gainful work for men.

"We find you have a better chance of saving a man's soul if you feed him, shelter him and lead him back to a self-supporting place in society," Lt.-Col. Fitch explained.

Quebec Orders Big Firm To Buy Farmers' Wood

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—The Quebec government yesterday ordered the Canadian International Paper Co. to purchase 165,000 cords of pulpwood from farmers and settlers in northwestern Quebec during the next three years.

The order includes 30,000 cords of pulpwood from the farmers and settlers from Temiscamingue.

FLOATING PRICE

Lands and Forests Minister Bona Arsenault said after a cabinet meeting that Canadian International would have to pay $4,680,000 for the product.

The company will also have to pay for the floating of the wood in northwestern Quebec down to its mills at a cost not to exceed $5.10 per cord, Mr. Arsenault said.

Mr. Arsenault added that, by forcing the most powerful pulp and paper industry in the province to increase its purchasing price, the government had "practically settled the problem of marketing this pulpwood in the northwestern Quebec area as well as everywhere else in the province."

He said the same problem had been settled the same way in Charlevoix and in the Gaspe Peninsula.

SAME SOURCES

In Charlevoix the Donoghue Paper Co. will have to purchase approximately 7,000 cords of pulpwood from farmers and settlers while in the Gaspe, Gaspesia Sulphite — a subsidiary of Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Mills—will have to purchase from the same sources 120,000 cords of pulpwood.

High School Patrol Praised by Gelling

Students at Mount Douglas High School should be complimented for establishing a high school patrol at a dangerous intersection in Saanich, Greater Victoria school board chairman W. C. Gelling said last night.

The school was the first in this area to adopt a high school patrol system.

PROTECTS BOTH

Mr. Gelling said the patrol at the Cedar Hill and Cedar Hill Cross Road intersection protects both high schools and elementary students.

"It's a troublesome intersection and I think this is a very fine effort," he said. In general, however, school patrols are not needed for high school students except in specific places where there are danger spots, he added.

FOR SOME TIME

Les Gordon of the Victoria Kiwanis Club said yesterday his club and police authorities have been trying for some time to extend the Junior Safety Patrol program to include high schools.

He said the club hopes "all high schools in Greater Victoria will follow suit."

Architects Appointed For School Additions

Greater Victoria school board held a special meeting last night to appoint architects for "phase one" of the various school additions approved by ratepayers in the recent referendum.

SAME PERSONS

In most cases, architects who have previously worked on the original buildings or extensions will be carrying on with the work, said W. C. Gelling, chairman of the board.

SCHOOLS NAMED

He said the board hopes the following elementary schools will be ready for occupancy by September, 1962: Macaulay with eight new rooms; George Jay, eight; Tillicum, eight; Hampton, two; Shelbourne, three; Glanford, four; Uplands, five; Marigold, four; Quadra, four, and Lake Hill six rooms.

Teachers Ratify Pay Pact

Some 850 local teachers last night officially ratified a revised salary schedule recently agreed upon by negotiators representing the teachers and the Greater Victoria school board.

A spokesman for the teachers said the new contract provides the last two weeks of June off with pay for teachers who are trying to improve their qualifications by attending summer sessions at universities—but only if the teachers plan to return to this district.

Parents' Night

Annual parents' night of 89 Squadron Kinsmen Air Cadets and Air Cadettes will be held at 7.30 p.m., Nov. 17, at the RCAF Urban Centre, Quadra and View.

Immigration Drop Reflects New Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration to Canada in the first nine months of 1961 dropped by one-third compared to the corresponding period last year, with British arrivals remaining in second place behind the Italians.

FLOW FALLS

The immigration department reported Wednesday that the flow of immigrants in the January-September period fell to 56,168 from 83,843 in 1960, a decrease of 27,675.

British arrivals in the nine months totalled 10,735, down from 17,468 last year.

Immigrants of Italian ethnic origin numbered 11,202 in the first nine months of the year as against 16,496 a year ago. Arrivals from the United States were at third place at 8,788, up from 8,500 in 1960.

SKILLS SOUGHT

The drop in total immigration reflects the federal government's policy of discouraging entry of unskilled workers, the class making up the bulk of the unemployed. The immigration department now is concentrating on attracting immigrants with skills and professions and those with funds who want to establish businesses or farms.

Most of the immigrants gave Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia as their province of destination.

Astronomer Discloses

Star Fall Caught By Czech Cameras

The emergence of Czechoslovakian astronomy's specialization in the study of meteorites and meteors was traced last night by Dr. Miroslav Pavlec for members of Victoria Centre, Royal Astronomical Society.

Dr. Pavlec, staff member at the Astronomical Institute of Czechoslovakia, has been working with scientists at Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here for the past four months and will return home within a couple of weeks.

Astrophysicists in his homeland have long been preoccupied with study of meteors and meteorite showers, and a meteor "fall" over the country in 1959 was completely recorded on film.

The Czech cameras picked the meteor up as it entered atmosphere and followed its fire trail down until it shattered into 17 pieces.

Scientists had so accurate a sight on the fall that they were able to recover five of the fragments from the earth.

Some 100 members of the local society heard Dr. Pavlec.

Assault Tale Told At Brandon Trial

BRANDON (CP) — Hugh Paton, on trial on charges of conspiracy, theft and fraud, said Wednesday he was once physically assaulted by the then president of Great West Saddlery Ltd.

Paton and Hubert Cox are charged with conspiracy to steal $460,000 and with theft of $448,000 after they took control of Brandon Packers Ltd. in 1956. Great West, of which they also were principal owners, took over Brandon Packers in 1958. Paton said he had been assaulted by Neil Gough just before a Great West directors' meeting in Toronto Aug. 5, 1960.

The attack, Paton testified, occurred during a discussion among Paton, Cox, Gough and some others. Paton gave no other details of the attack.

But the discussion brought an admission from Gough that he did not hold shares in Great West. He was dismissed.

Air Marshal to Speak On World Problem

Air Marshal Sir Philip Livingston of Qualicum Beach will address Victoria branch of the United Nations Association at 8 p.m. today in St. John Ambulance Hall, 971 Pandora Avenue.

He will speak on "Detrimental Influences Affecting Balanced Judgment — Another World Problem."

Sir Philip, born and raised in the Cowichan district, was formerly medical director-general of the Royal Air Force.

Big Expansion Planned By Island Aviation Firm

By JACK FRY

Fairey Aviation has doubled its plant space at Patricia Bay Airport in a bid to become one of the Pacific Northwest's largest aircraft service industries.

The firm has purchased the department of transport hangar. It is also bringing in new machinery, machine tools and new departments "to increase our capability in the aircraft field," said manager Dennis Howell.

NOT YET FINALIZED

Separate announcements of the program were made yesterday by Mr. Howell and MP George Chatterton, who made representations to the government in Ottawa.

It seemed certain last night that Fairey Aviation will now get contracts for servicing of all Canadian military aircraft on the west coast. A company official said it hasn't been finalized but Mr. Chatterton said it will be.

OPERATIONS DOUBLED

"I brought the attention of the government to the potential of this industry here and they (the firm) were able to purchase the department of transport hangar, doubling their operations," said Mr. Chatterton.

Combination of airport runway extension to accommodate large aircraft, expansion of the aviation firm's facilities and awarding of military contracts here will put Fairey Aviation into "a much better position for competing with United States' firms," said Mr. Chatterton.

EXPANSION SEEN

"I foresee a tremendous expansion in the industry at Patricia Bay," he added.

Mr. Howell said "this is our first step in progressive expansion here. We will be capable of carrying out work on military aircraft based on the west coast. We expect an upswing on this type of work starting about March."

MORE TO BE HIRED

He said the firm now has 120 employees and will be hiring more employees early in 1962.

Next week, Mr. Howell will make a two or three-week sales promotion visit to Japan in an effort to increase Fairey Aviation's existing contracts for export of aircraft parts to Japan.

Counters Tick Dust Not Bad

A cloud of radioactive dust—probably from an atomic explosion—has drifted squarely over Vancouver Island and sent radiation counters soaring to a point almost four times as high as the October average.

Pacific Naval Laboratory scientists in Victoria yesterday said fringes of the cloud were noted Nov. 7 when radioactivity level jumped to 2.5 times the October average.

By yesterday, airborne radioactive dust had brought the figure to four times the average of a month ago.

Even at its present level, scientists pointed out, each person is exposed to no more radiation than is emitted by the luminous dial of a wrist watch.

While they believe the fallout cloud is small, scientists say it is impossible to estimate its size, drift or place of origin.

They are unable to determine whether the cloud comes from Russia's recent superblast—or whether it is the cloud from another explosion on its second or third trip around the world.

Army Slow To Soften Jarring Gun

Officialdom in ordnance has not yet complied with an army request for smaller, less noisy charges for the noon and 9 p.m. gun at Work Point, an army spokesman said yesterday.

Nearby residents have complained bitterly that impact of the twice daily blast jars their nerves and damages their homes.

McEwen Newest Bidder In Mayoralty Contest

Victoria's 1955 mayoralty election slate may be duplicated this year with entry of former alderman Elmer McEwen into the contest.

Mr. McEwen confirmed last night he is considering running in this year's mayoralty election.

He was a starter in the 1955 election but had to withdraw shortly before actual election because of a technicality. He then sought an aldermanic seat but was defeated.

Other candidates in 1955 were Claude Harrison, then mayor, and Mayor Percy Scurrah, who defeated Mr. Harrison.

ADMITS RUNNING

Mr. Harrison has admitted he is considering running this year, and Mayor Percy Scurrah is expected to seek re-election although he has not declared himself.

Mr. McEwen was elected as an alderman in 1956 and was on council until 1960 when he decided to quit. He refused to give a reason for not seeking re-election.

OTHER CANDIDATES

Other possible candidates for the mayoralty include W. A. Scott and Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith.

Home Craft Takes Four To Adventure

Four young adventurers left Victoria's inner harbor yesterday aboard a home-built catamaran bound for the U.S. west coast and possibly Mexico.

Bernhart Abel, 34, of Vancouver, designer of the twin-hulled craft, along with crewmen Franz Giers, 21, Wolfgang Giffels, 22, and Clark Hauffman, 19, built the vessel in 25 days at a cost of $1,200.

Immediate ports of call include Port Angeles, Neah Bay, and ports along the Washington, Oregon and California coasts.

Supplies and equipment are stored in the vessel's twin hulls. They plan to camp ashore and sail in only fair weather. Power is supplied by a small outboard and main and foresail.

The expedition hopes to make Mexico, but doesn't plan on breaking any records.

"It is only a holiday trip," their skipper said. "If we make our goal so much the better."

Problems for Council

Vote on Hydro Hall Faces Rocky Road

A bylaw authorizing the city to ask property owners how they feel about buying the B.C. Hydro building for a new city hall may have a rocky passage at today's council meeting.

At least one alderman—A. W. Toone—does not favor putting a single question to taxpayers. He suggests the plebiscite should ask if property owners want the city to buy the B.C. Hydro building or build a new city hall. (See Page 2.)

MAYOR ABSENT

Only seven aldermen will be present. Mayor Percy Scurrah—known to prefer the single question—is in Montreal and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow is in Carmel, Calif.

Acting mayor Arthur Dowell will conduct the meeting.

Council will face a second petition from senior citizens, asking for provision of a downtown recreation centre.

REFERRED RECENTLY

The petition, signed by 290 pensioners, was received at city hall yesterday. A similar petition, with 480 signatures, recently was referred to the intermunicipal committee.

The high-rise apartment controversy which boiled up in the face of opposition from some James Bay residents at the last meeting of council will likely be revived.

HOLIDAY ISSUE

Edwin Popham, a city lawyer representing several persons opposed to the high-rise zoning bylaw, has asked for a further amendment to the bylaw.

And aldermen will be asked to rule if Remembrance Day—Saturday—will be considered as a holiday for the city staff.

Council policy follows the lead of provincial and federal governments. But B.C. is not considering Remembrance Day a holiday this year while Ottawa is.

We Have $290,342 We Need $29,658

Only $29,658 remains to be collected for this year's United Appeal fund.

Yesterday's total stood at $290,342. The goal is $320,000.

Lowest Airport Bid From Vancouver

Vancouver firm of Dawson Wade and Co. Ltd. was lowest of seven bidders for the job of extending the main runway at Patricia Bay Airport by 1,000 feet, it was learned yesterday.

The company submitted a bid of $201,810.

It had been estimated the job would cost in the neighborhood of $234,000.

Jamieson Construction was next in line with a tender of $205,025.

Highest bid was submitted by McEachern and Co., Vancouver, with a tender of $243,317.

The extension will boost present main runway length at Patricia Bay to 6,000 feet.

This will enable large types of aircraft to land at the airport.

Swamped by Jubilee

City planning staff is swamped with work this week, checking four large bundles of plans and specifications for new wing at Royal Jubilee Hospital. City planner Roderick Clack, left; building inspector John Ford and secretary Muriel Fouiger were busy on involved work yesterday. A $2,500,000 building permit will be issued for construction next week.—(Colonist photo.)

Regenerator Here Friday

The newly-formed Victoria Centre, Spiritual Regeneration Movement, will hold a public meeting in the C and C hall, 904 Government at 8 p.m. Friday.

Maharaj, one of the group's founders, will attend the meeting.

Co-operation Urged

Go Farther Afield Contractors Told

Victoria contractors faced with tougher mainland competition because of fast ferry service will have to go farther afield themselves, a prominent contractor here said last night.

George Farmer, president of the Victoria Building Industries Exchange, told members of the exchange during a dinner meeting at the Empress Hotel:

"Your builders exchange is concerned about the influx of general contractors . . . from Vancouver invading Victoria. With modern ferries we are getting to be part of the rest of B.C. and therefore subject to more competition.

"We have to do something. Contractors should use our planned services more and bid on more jobs farther afield."

The exchange will send letters to architects "all over Vancouver Island and the lower mainland" in a promotion campaign and "invite Vancouver Island contractors to join our exchange."

No Cenotaph Vigil During Services

A "Vigil for Peace," to be staged during Remembrance Day at the Cenotaph by members of the Voice of Women, will be withdrawn during morning services Nov. 11.

Major R. B. Longridge, chairman of the Remembrance Day committee in charge of the service, said the vigil—planned by the VOW in co-operation with Canadian Committee for Control of Radiation Hazards—will not interfere with Cenotaph services.

Except for the one-hour break, pairs of VOW members will stand a "silent vigil" from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., holding a banner with the words: "No More War."

They will be replaced each hour by another pair of women.

Extra Day At BCE For Holiday

B.C. Electric public offices will be closed Monday to give office employees a holiday in lieu of Remembrance Day.

A company spokesman said the holiday is required under terms of the company's contract with Office Employees' International Union. When two or more statutory holidays in a year occur on a Saturday or Sunday the company must provide a day off to compensate for one. Dominion Day was a Saturday.

Baron's Odyssey Ended With Nasty Surprise!

* * *

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

CANINE-NAPPING: Character in town has a boxer dog named Baron who has the habit of wandering away from home every now and then.

The other day the dog's owner was driving along Yates when he saw Baron trotting along the sidewalk. He stopped the car and jumped out.

"Baron!" he yelled. "Come here!"

Baron ambled over to the car, apparently pleased to see his own master, who was a little angry.

He opened the car's rear door and, as Baron hopped onto the back seat, delivered a stinging swipe on the dog's rear end.

With that, the character drove to his home.

It was only when he pulled into the driveway, and saw his dog waiting for him there, that he realized he'd made a ghastly mistake.

The dog he'd picked up was a boxer named Baron, sure enough, but it belongs to Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes!

WELL VERSED: Throughout the lengthy income tax evasion trial which has been featured in Saanich police court, Magistrate J. A. Byers followed the intricate developments with ease.

As he disclosed yesterday, he'd once been an income tax investigator himself in India.

* * *

CHRISTMAS CHEER: Victoria historians have been thrown into a flap by an executive's report that some of the more elderly members lost a few of their inhibitions by consuming as much as five glasses of sherry at the Christmas reception last year.

This year it's going to be different.

Members have approved a plan whereby the bar steward will punch their tickets for the event — and thus limit the guests to two nips of sherry per person!

* * *

WORLD REPORT: In Washington, the gravity of our time was emphasized when Dr. Bentley Glass, a scientist, submitted a report to the government which later refused him permission to re-examine it on the grounds he wasn't cleared for access to such top-secret material! . . . French delegates to the Moscow Trade Fair, understandably alert to the possibilities of their hotel room having hidden microphones, cut through a maze of multi-colored wires they found hidden under the carpet. The floor was thick but not so thick that it deadened the sound of the chandelier crashing in the room beneath them!

RELATIVE DENSITY: Students attending night school course on nuclear energy were provided this week with a sample of radioactive dust filtered from the air over Victoria.

Measuring devices were brought in so they could determine for themselves the precise amount of fallout the air contained.

These gadgets began clackety-clack-clacking with shotgun rapidity. Then Dr. William English of the Pacific Naval Laboratory put everything into proper perspective.

The same devices were used to measure the radio-activity emanating from the student's wrist watches.

These clacks were the loudest heard all evening!

* * *

SIDE EFFECTS: Our social department's Terry French has taken to dispensing candies around the office. She's doing it for her own good.

Seems it's bazaar time in the city and in the past few weeks she's already gained five pounds!

The World Service of the YWCA will present a program Friday, Nov. 10, at 8 p.m., at the YW, when Mrs. Phyllis Gravesley and Mr. Humphries will tell about World Service. Each of the three Y-Teen Groups of the Victoria YM-YWCA has adopted a refugee as one of its projects in the World Refugee work. Friday's program will have an international flavor, with Norwegian songs, a boy soprano choir singing German songs, Hungarian gypsy music, French Canadian folk songs, Indian songs, and Chinese entertainment.

At Auxiliary Bazaar

Carnival Spirit Takes Over

The Nurses' Residence of Royal Jubilee Hospital was turned into the setting for a carnival yesterday when the Junior Auxiliary to the hospital held their Carousel Bazaar.

Everywhere visitors looked they saw members in blue smocks tending flower stalls which filled the foyer, lunch and tea rooms, novelty stalls of all sorts, and a cluster of carnival booths strung with streamers and balloons.

Highlight of the affair was the decorative theme, carried out by Mrs. Carron B. Jameson and Mrs. James Burchett. Mrs. Jamesons's montages decorated the walls, and were carnival cages filled with a most unlikely collection of never-before-seen animals in brilliant colors.

One corner was set up with racks covered with aprons in all shades. Mrs. Cyril Chapman was in charge of this department, assisted by Mrs. Roland Stacey, Mrs. F. E. Norris and Mrs. P. S. Watt. Under a bright canopied booth Mrs. H. L. Webster, with Mrs. F. G. Aldous, Mrs. F. C. Wasson, Mrs. Maitland Young and Mrs. G. B. McLeod, sold stuffed toys that were very popular. Always the undoing of would-be dieters was the candy stall run by Mrs. H. K. Burnett, Mrs. J. Swemle, Mrs. C. A. Mudge, Mrs. C. A. Watson, Mrs. E. E. Chamberlin and Mrs. J. MacDonald.

Mrs. C. E. Moore handled the raffle, while Mrs. K. Norgaard, with Mrs. T. A. Brown and Mrs. A. J. Helmcken, ran the lucky dip. The gift stall was run by Mrs. D. J. Pennington with Miss E. Patterson, Mrs. L. Corke, Mrs. Ainslie Worthington, Mrs. W. B. Ross, Mrs. M. Newman and Mrs. F. G. Chamberlin.

DOLLS POPULAR

Dressed dolls and clothes of all sorts were sold by Mrs. Leslie Aylard, assisted by Mrs. F. W. Batholomew, Miss Marianne Fraser, Mrs. C. V. Gilbert, Mrs. Murray Anderson, Mrs. W. Hughes, Mrs. K. Dixon and Mrs. O. W. Pauline. At the jewelry stall were Mrs. R. W. Campbell, Mrs. D. J. Elder, Mrs. C. R. Strachan, Mrs. A. L. Flood, Mrs. E. L. McNiven, Mrs. P. Newell and Mrs. Helen Ellis.

A glamour stall, filled with decorated bottles and boxes and sweet smelling bath salts was run by Mrs. Jameson, who made the posters. The corner cupboard was run by Mrs. W. A. Trenholme, assisted by Mrs. W. E. G. Nichols, Mrs. T. F. Rose, Mrs. A. C. Bloomfield, Mrs. E. D. Falconer, Mrs. M. M. Priestman, Mrs. A. Gibbs, Mrs. I. C. Dinning, Mrs. Eric Bennett, Mrs. Frank Spalding, Miss Clare King and Mrs. Ralph Smith.

Raffle for major prizes was run by Mrs. D. Hunter, Mrs. J. H. Todd, Mrs. L. E. Kirk and Mrs. J. M. Porter; knitting stall, Mrs. G. H. Carter, Mrs. S. Milligan and Mrs. G. S. Bryson.

Luncheon and tea arrangements were by Mrs. T. W. Walker with Mrs. Harry Ellis, Mrs. I. W. Bell, Mrs. Gordon Jones, Mrs. A. A. Meharey, Mrs. P. J. Steel, Mrs. Glen Simpson, Mrs. J. W. Green, Mrs. I. N. Hill, Miss Eve Wilson, Mrs. A. B. Sinclair, Mrs. M. Grattan and student nurses.

Superfluities in the small parlor were sold by Mrs. W. J. Roper, Mrs. A. L. Harvey, Mrs. J. B. Hedley, Mrs. W. M. Docker, Mrs. T. H. Hewett, Mrs. P. G. Hope and Mrs. Norman Parkinson.

Flowers and plants were sold by Mrs. W. Stenner, Mrs. R. L. Green and Mrs. Walter Fletcher; Christmas tags and coasters, Mrs. Howard Roden; calendars, Miss Lucy Woodrow. Treasurer for the affair was Mrs. L. Coulcher assisted by Mrs. Harry Kingsley and Mrs. R. Humphreys; in charge of supplies, Mrs. A. H. Bamford, and checkroom, Mrs. Campbell Rainey and Mrs. J. A. Hutchison. Mrs. K. W. L. Scace, with conveners, Mrs. D. Longridge, Mrs. A. M. Oswald and Mrs. F. W. Bartholomew greeted special guests.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 17, have been married 14 months and have a small baby. My husband is 19 and he doesn't act anything like he did when we were dating. I can't believe he's the same guy.

He's so jealous of me I feel like a prisoner. When he's home he insists on answering the telephone. If it's a wrong number he accuses me of having a boy friend.

Last night he went through my picture album and tore up every picture he could find of me with someone else. Some were group pictures of kids I went to school with.

After that display of rotten temper I decided I wasn't going to take any more of his hatefulness. I phoned my father and asked him to come for me and the baby. I want to get a divorce and start over. What is your advice?—DELTA GIRL.

Dear Girl: Start what ever—another hideous mess?

Here you are at 17, married to a hot-tempered adolescent, the mother of a child and already eyeing the divorce court as the big magic which will solve all your problems. It won't. It would only free you to make another horrible mistake.

You need time to grow up and so does that active volcano who calls himself a husband. My advice is to stay apart for a few weeks then see a marriage counselor or a clergyman together for advice on how to make a success of your marriage.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I run a small store. We've been in business almost 10 years and have done well. We are open four evenings a week and the hours are wearing, but we have an excellent inventory, a healthy bank account and a wonderful trade. The trouble is we are both dead tired because we've never had a vacation.

Whenever I mention taking a few days off Arnie says he isn't going to leave the store with strangers. He is afraid we would lose some of our trade to the competitor down the street if we shut our doors.

Please dish out some common sense. I'm — HOARSE FROM TALKING.

Dear Hoarse: Ask you husband if he ever saw a Brink's money wagon in a funeral procession.

Insist that he close the store for 10 days and take a vacation. What good is success if it makes a prisoner of you? If Arnie refuses tell him you're going alone and that you'll send him postcards. Then do it.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Our mother has always been a strong individualist. She has ridiculed conventionality all of her life and has brought up her daughters the same way.

Please understand that we are not sitting in judgment. All we want is advice on a pressing problem. This sister's oldest daughter (now 18) is pregnant with her second out-of-wedlock child in two years. There is no father in sight. The mother has invited us to a baby shower next week. She said "Lydia is in her sixth month and she needs clothing for the baby."

Our husbands say a baby shower under these conditions is a mockery and we should not go. What do you say?—SISTERS.

Dear Sisters: A baby shower is designed to honor a girl who is anticipating a happy event. In this case I see nothing to celebrate nor anyone to be honored. Send a gift of clothing for the baby but stay home.

University Budgets 'National Scandal'

A top Canadian educator yesterday said Canada needs a 100 per cent increase in its university budgets, and called it a "national scandal" that more money was not being spent in this field.

"It is a matter of extreme urgency," said Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan.

Head of the department of zoology at UBC and a recent visitor to Russia, Dr. Cowan was speaking to a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel.

"When I say more money should be spent on education, I am talking about our national survival," said the speaker emphatically.

SALVATION IN YOUNG

"We must help our students. Our salvation is in the young. The power of any nation now rests on the extent of its scientific knowledge."

Dr. Cowan was a member of a five-man delegation to the Academy of Sciences in the U.S.S.R. Apart from extensive tours of institutes for scientific information, biology, oceanology, Zoology and higher nervous functions, Dr. Cowan collected extensive information on the Soviet education and political systems.

"There is a classless system in Russia, because it is simply given another title. This is strata. The strata is very evident. People simply cannot be kept at one level. This is a strata of ability."

In the Soviet system, no youngster of ability lacks opportunity. At one university alone, he noted 17,000 students all on scholarships.

"Many of these facts are widely known," said Dr. Cowan, "but what is not so well known is the Soviet reward system. It is the most fantastic system of incentive rewards, and it works.

"Every person in the U.S.S.R., from a factory laborer to a university student knows his reward system. A factory worker working at a faster rate than his fellows will be paid more.

"Take a university professor. He has a set salary of say our equivalent of $4,000 a year. If he publishes his works, he makes extra money for each 16 pages printed. If he becomes a fellow of a society, he may make $10,000 a year.

"If he is made an Academy member, he will receive $30,000, and if made a member of a top executive committee, $60,000."

The speaker said the Communist block had many advantages.

"They outnumber us. They have larger families. Their system brings workers of both sexes into employment at all levels. They have the reward system of incentive pay and they have their scholarship system."

DEMOCRACY

On the other side of the coin, Dr. Cowan said the democratic system had a more refined technology, was further advanced in chemistry and medicine and had a higher standard of living as well as freedom from fear and distrust as it is known in the Soviet.

Dr. Cowan issued a warning about China.

"China is coming up. Today they make up one-quarter of the world's population. There are 650 million of them. They have one scientist per thousand population. We estimate that by 1980, their population will be 1,000 million, with six million scientists, or three times as many as the Americans will have by 1980."

Dr. Cowan felt that instead of discouraging women workers in this country, they should be encouraged in all fields.

"Any young woman making an average of over 80% in university, is brilliant. She should be encouraged to use and impart her knowledge. Raising children does not take a lifetime, after a few years, young matrons can again take up their professions, using the skills they learned earlier, enriching the country.

"Certainly the U.S.S.R does not waste its talent and energy as we do."

Miss Judith Anne Baines, left, and Mr. Michael Schuler receive cheques for $150 for winning Women's Canadian Club scholarships, from Dr. Olga Jardine, president of club. Miss Baines is a graduate of Oak Bay High School and Mr. Schuler is a graduate of Victoria High. Mr. Schuler was born in Spain, lived in the Argentine until coming to Victoria recently. — (Photo by Ryan Bros.)

TV TALK

Well, Moment of Decisions WAS a gem of a short story by Stanley Ellin, but the version seen over Channel 4 at 10 p.m. Tuesday was anything but.

Acting was good, although Fred Astaire played Fred Astaire with grace and skill, but the script was disappointing.

The ending, particularly, was not only predictable but cleverly succeeded in turning what was a disturbing story into fat-headed homespun philosophy.

Thursday's Highlights

7.00 a.m.—The Seekers, a half-hour series highlighting modern medical research and new techniques of patient care—4.

8.00 p.m.—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker speaks for 15 minutes on Tocsin B, the national civil defence exercise to be held Tuesday. Followed by 15 minutes of film—2 and 6.

10.00—CBS Reports offers a study of the probable effects of nuclear war and the value of fallout shelters—7, 11 and 12.

Thursday's Movies

Westerns—9.30 a.m. on Channel 4.

5.00 p.m.—The Mark of Zorro (1940 adventure), Tyrone Power—8.

5.30—Background to Danger (1943 drama), George Raft—12.

6.30—Daisy Kenyon (1947 women's drama), Joan Crawford—6.

★ 10.45—Mrs. Miniver (1942 war drama), Greer Garson, Walter Pidgeon, Richard Ney—8.

★ 11.0—Charge of the Light Brigade (1936 drama), Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, David Niven—12.

★ 11.25—Stormy Weather (1943 all-negro musical), Lena Horne, Fats Waller, Bill "Bojangles" Robinson—6.

11.30—Girls' School (1938 drama), Ralph Bellamy—11.

11.35—(Double feature show). Rose of the Yukon (1949 crime drama), Steve Brodie; Missing Woman (1951 crime drama), Penny Edwards—4.

11.50—While the City Sleeps (1956 mystery), Dana Andrews—2.

Midnight—Comin' Round the Mountain (1940 hillbilly comedy), Bob Burns—7.

The makers have received many spontaneous letters written by people who had endured continuous pain for years, and who—prior to using Dols' Flannel — had expended large sums of money and much time on so-called cures and remedies, without relief. These and other long-standing cases have been completely relieved; many happy wearers of Dols' Flannel describe the properties of this fabric as "simply miraculous."

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

It is impossible to play good bridge by concentrating only on your own problems. You must try to lighten partner's load and also to create problems for the opponents.

In today's hand, East avoided an automatic play which would give declarer no opportunity to lose his contract. Instead, he gave him a problem and was well rewarded.

South should not have pushed to slam on the basis of his partner's simple spade preference. He had forced partner to speak twice on a hand that might contain no values whatever. Perhaps South's best action is simply to bid five spades, asking North to carry on with any excuse. Probably North would have bid the slam anyway.

Declarer took the opening heart lead and led a spade to the queen. Without a trace of hesitation, East ducked. When the next spade was led from dummy and East played low, South had something to think about. If West had started with both ace and jack, nothing would now help. If he had had jack-nine, South must now up the king. If, on the other hand, West's original holding was ace-nine, the ten was the winning play.

South had nothing to go by except that if East had the spade ace, he might have taken it. So he finessed the ten and lost two trump tricks.

East's duck was mandatory. He could see that South had no entry to the dummy, and if his partner held the jack, grabbing the ace would force declarer to make the right play on the next round. As the cards lay, taking the spade ace would have been equivalent to surrender.

One of Victoria's best-designed homes at an unbelievably low price. This home is truly the work of a professional—sited and oriented to take full advantage of the view and weather—the "earth" colour finish, chosen to blend into the surroundings (a forest backdrop) highlight the beauties of the wood finishes (no cheap stucco). The interior avoids those annoying deficiencies so prevalent in the ordinary NHA house referred to as "the stucco box." The entrance offers space and a feeling of WELCOME with the use of obscure glass, decorative wood designs and drop ceiling. Truly there are dozens of features too numerous to describe in this lovely full-basement, 3 or 4-bedroom home. Here is a house that must be seen to be appreciated and must be lived in to be fully appreciated. This is a home you will be proud to own. Monthly (P & I) $96. Taxes $280. Interest 6¾%. # Radiation Level Stays Unchanged

OTTAWA (CP) — Average level of fallout from Russian nuclear explosions in the last two weeks of October remained almost unchanged compared with the first two weeks of the month, the health department reported yesterday.

The average radiation level recorded by the department's 24 air sampling stations also continued to follow a pattern of sharp rises followed by equally sharp drops.

For the week Oct. 16-22 the average radiation level in air samples was 30.9 disintegrations per minute per cubic metre of air, compared with 26.8 for the week Oct. 9-15 and 44.5 for Oct. 2-8. In the week Oct. 23-29 the level was 37.6.

NOT REFLECTED

While levels on Oct. 29 were somewhat higher than on the previous 13 days, health department officials said they do not reflect Russia's explosion of a 30-megaton device Oct. 23.

Market Blow 'Greatest For U.S.'

HUMBOLDT, Sask. (CP) — More than neutrality is required of the United States in the matter of Britain's possible entry into the European Common Market, Finance Minister Fleming says.

He said entry of the Common Market by Britain would have far-reaching, serious effects on Canada's trade relations, and would have "political and strategic overtones of great significance."

The U.S. government, he said, which must soon obtain renewal of its reciprocal trade agreement legislation, will require broader, bolder and more forward-looking commercial policy.

He said the scope and character of the tariff negotiating authority obtained from congress by the administration could well influence the course of history for years to come.

One was allegedly sentenced to 12 years in prison, the others to seven years.

Homicide Squad Gets More Help

MONTREAL (CP)—Director Josaphat Brunet of the provincial police announced yesterday about a dozen detectives have been placed on the force's homicide squad to help it cope with a mounting number of unsolved crimes. 'Support Widespread'

Saanich Backs Bid to Build Lab on Campus

Saanich will advise the federal government that the best location for a proposed $1,800,000 forest research laboratory is on the Gordon Head campus of Victoria University.

Council acted this week on receipt of a letter from Victoria University authorities which said recent developments had caused a reconsideration of the earlier refusal to allow the lab to go on the campus.

Reeve George Chatterton said there was widespread support for the move from groups such as the Capital Region Planning Board, Victoria Chamber of Commerce and local teachers.

The reeve said the laboratory would take little space on the campus and future expansion could be on to 10 acres of department of transport property adjoining the university which would "become surplus within five years."

In the meantime, council decided to take no action on an application for rezoning of federal property on Burnside that was earmarked as an alternate site for the laboratory when the university location was ruled out originally.

4-H Club

Island Girls Going To Famous Fair

Two Vancouver Island delegates will share the most coveted award a 4-H council can offer—a trip to the world's largest agricultural show, the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Jaquelyn Rosman of Saanichton and Rose Couling of Coombs are among the 14 delegates thus honored for showing the highest proficiency and leadership in the 4-H movement in B.C.

In Toronto they will meet 140 delegates at the Royal York Hotel, headquarters for 13th national 4-H Club week.

Highlight of the trip will be meetings with Governor-General and Mrs. Vanier and Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Theme of the meeting, during which business sessions will be held and farm problems discussed, is "4-H and self-realization."

Bail Set at $1,000 For Accused Driver

Bail was set at $1,000 in police court yesterday for Robert Gibb, 22, charged with driving while his licence was suspended.

Magistrate J. A. Byers set bail high because Gibb "is already on bail for other alleged offences and I feel it should be substantial."

At the same time, a charge of breaking, entering and theft, laid by Oak Bay police, was dismissed. Gibb had posted $1,000 bail on this charge.

Gibb was arrested on a warrant charging him with the driving offence Tuesday as he left court, where he had appeared to elect trial on another alleged offence.

Lawyer David Hummel was unsuccessful in his bid to have Gibb released on his own recognizance.

"He is already on bail for a substantial amount . . . an aggregate of $4,000, even with the discharge of (the Oak Bay charge) this morning," said the lawyer.

Magistrate Byers inquired if the driving charge was laid while Gibb was on bail "for the other offences."

"For the other alleged offences, your honor," the defence lawyer corrected him.

* * *

Surprise Move Ends City Trial

By ED COSGROVE

Probably the heaviest total of fines ever imposed in Greater Victoria police courts was levied yesterday by Magistrate J. A. Byers against a Saanich supermarket operator charged with falsifying income tax returns.

Henry Eng, operator of Oakcrest supermarket, 3475 Quadra, was fined a total of $15,000 for six counts of filing false income tax returns.

The trial of Mr. Eng came to an abrupt end yesterday afternoon when defence counsel W. H. M. Haldane requested permission to change his client's plea to guilty.

The surprise move came at the midway point in the lengthy trial.

More than 10 witnesses had been heard in eight court appearances since the trial began in Saanich court last month. Another 10 were ready to testify yesterday.

Must Pay Back Taxes

Thirty-five exhibits had been entered into the evidence and reams of documents supporting the Crown's case were on hand in court.

Besides the fine, Mr. Eng will also have to pay $39,365 in back taxes.

Kenneth Stokes, investigator for the income tax department, who had handled the two-year probe into the finances of Mr. Eng's supermarket, told the court his investigation disclosed a total of $116,432 in undeclared income from 1954 to 1957.

This included $84,985 realized from sales, $26,093 in duplicated costs, $1,238 in personal expenses (declared as business expenses); $3,917 in profits from unreported truck sales and bank and mortgage interest of $190.

Second Largest Fine

Mr. Stokes said the additional income tax accruing from these profits came to $39,365 "not including interest calculation."

Later, he told the Colonist that collection of the outstanding taxes would be turned over to the collection department of his office. He said the interest rate was computed at approximately eight to 10 per cent.

The fine was the second largest ever imposed against an individual on Vancouver Island.

Largest fine was levied against the late Mayo Singh, of Paldi, who in 1954 was fined $20,000 at Lake Cowichan after pleading guilty to charges involving back taxes of some $300,000.

The application to change the plea came after a half-hour conference by both prosecution and defence counsel in Magistrate Byers' chambers prior to court convening.

'Could Be Disputed'

Then both batteries of counsel (Pat Sinnott and his nephew Jerry Sinnott for the prosecution; Mr. Haldane and Frank Donegani for the defence) filed into court.

When Mr. Byers entered, Mr. Haldane rose:

"I am instructed . . . to ask leave . . . to withdraw the plea of not guilty to each of the six counts . . . and to enter a plea of guilty on each," he said.

Crown counsel offered no objections.

After Mr. Stokes related the findings of his investigation, Mr. Haldane asked him:

"Would you agree that possibly your findings could be questioned, and some of the figures subject to dispute?"

Mr. Stokes said he agreed that some of the figures could be disputed by another authority, but to his knowledge, they were accurate.

Speaking to the sentence, Pat Sinnot said the department of justice considered falsification of income tax returns "a very serious matter."

This, he said, was a "flagrant case" of deceiving the government and the "people of Canada."

"The maximum penalty on each count can be a fine of $10,000, plus two years' imprisonment, plus a levy of

81 Die In Air Crash

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—A chartered Constellation carrying 78 military recruits destined for training in the Berlin buildup crashed while making an emergency landing with two of its four engines dead at Byrd Field here last night. There were only two known survivors.

The Imperial Airlines plane also carried a crew of five. The two survivors were the pilot and the flight engineer.

If only two of the total 83 were alive it would be the worst crash of a single non-military aircraft in the nation's history. The most costly previous crash was that of a TWA Constellation in Chicago, Sept. 15, of this year which killed 78.

The flight originated in Newark, N.J., and was en route to Columbia, S.C. The recruits were believed to be from the Baltimore, Newark and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., areas. The plane had made a stop in Baltimore.

Racial Critic 'Guilty'

Queen Off Today

LONDON (CP) — The British cabinet decided at a special meeting Wednesday that the Queen should go ahead with her state visit to troubled Ghana.

She and Prince Philip leave this morning by jet plane.

Prime Minister Macmillan drove to Buckingham Palace to inform the Queen of the decision and then told the Commons the Queen would proudly go ahead with the tour despite a series of bomb blasts in Accra, capital of the West African Commonwealth nation.

The Queen is said to be eagerly looking forward to the trip and to have made it known that her personal inclination was against altering the program, announced months ago.

In Accra last night the Ghanaian government warned it would impose the maximum penalty "including death," for any acts of subversion during and after the Queen's visit.

Kennedy Defends Nehru

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy came quickly to the defence of Jawaharlal Nehru yesterday when told by a reporter that "a number of people" think the Indian premier's views tend to be pro-Communist.

Kennedy seemed somewhat shocked at the statement, made by a foreign reporter at the president's news conference.

"I know of no rational man in the United States who holds that view," Kennedy said.

A few hours earlier Kennedy and Nehru had spent an hour and 20 minutes together in their third straight day of talks.

Kennedy said he and Nehru naturally differed on some matters. But he knew of no one more committed to individual freedom than the Indian leader.

Giovanni's Loaded with Lire After Fabulous Run of Luck

TURIN, Italy (AP)—Giovanni Vallauri has decided, with some reason, that he is having a run of luck.

On Oct. 21 Vallauri, a Turin chemist, took a chance on Italy's weekly state-run lottery, Enalotto, and won 3,500,000 lire ($5,600).

The next day he played Italy's Totocalcio football pool and won 8,000,000 lire ($12,800).

On Oct. 28 he went to Turin's auto show to see what he could buy with his winnings. He won a 500,000 lire ($800) car on his entry ticket.

The next day he played Totocalcio again and won 2,000,000 lire ($3,200).

And, of course, Enalotto rolled around again Monday. His winnings: 1,900,000 lire ($3,000).

Total to date with Totocalcio coming up again Sunday: 15,900,000 lire ($25,400).

Presidential Switch Forced By Angry Air Force Attack

QUITO (AP)—Ecuador's air force attacked Quito with jet fighters Wednesday and forced the army to accept left-leaning Vice-President Carlos Julio Arosemena as president of the crisis-ridden nation.

Three T-33 jets firing rockets and machine-guns swooped over the Legislative Palace where tank-supported soldiers were holding Arosemena a virtual prisoner.

CLAIM DROPPED

Minutes after the attack, radio stations and loud speakers announced that army-backed Camilo Gallegos Toledo, supreme court chief and a political centrist, had dropped his claim to the presidency.

FORCE USED

Army units had picked him to take over the job left vacant by the resignation of President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra. The Congress voted Arosemena into the job and the air force backed up the decision with force against the army.

TANKS WITHDRAWN

As soon as Gallegos' resignation was announced, army tanks and troops withdrew from the palace.

Deposed president Velasco Ibarra obtained political asylum yesterday in the Mexican embassy.

Scared Morgue Man Stays Out in Cold

CHICAGO (UPI)—The coroner asked permission yesterday to hire a second attendant for the midnight-to-8 a.m. shift at the county morgue because the present attendant "is afraid to stay alone in the morgue with the bodies." Coroner Andrew Toman said the lone attendant puts the receiving office telephone outside the window and stays out in the cold awaiting any calls.

The coroner said none of the three daytime attendants want the job. "They're just as scared," he said.

UN Demands A-Test Talks

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The General Assembly last night called for immediate resumption of negotiations on a nuclear test ban treaty despite Russia's clear warning it would not participate in such talks.

The vote was 70-11 with 15 abstentions. Only Cuba joined the 10-nation Soviet bloc in opposing the call, contained in a resolution sponsored by the United States and Britain.

Bomarc Heads in Air

* * *

'War Might Catch Us Without Nuclear Arms'

PORT HAWKESBURY, N.S. (CP)—Opposition leader Pearson said Wednesday that nuclear war might catch Canada off guard with no time to secure nuclear weapons.

Mr. Pearson said the government was spending millions on two Bomarc-B missile sites but would not declare its policy on nuclear warheads for them.

Mr. Pearson said it appeared to be the government's policy to "wait for an emergency and then decide," but in nuclear warfare, there might not be time to secure nuclear warheads.

OTTAWA (CP)—There is no present intention of ordering conventional warheads for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, reliable sources said Wednesday.

Such warheads would cost an enormous amount to develop and produce, the sources said, taking issue with a spokesman for Boeing Airplane Company, manufacturer of the Bomarc, who said last week high-explosive warheads could be easily installed in the weapon.

The defence department said last month the question of warheads for the Bomarc was not considered urgent at the time because it would be some months before the missiles were installed on their launching pads at North Bay and La Macaza, Que.

The department made this statement when it became clear that nuclear warheads only were available for the Bomarc.

The defence department hardly bothers any more to conceal its restlessness over the government's continuing policy of refraining from making a decision on acquisition of American nuclear warheads.

Install Mailbox Now Service Comes Later

ALBERNI — Port Alberni postal officials have urged Alberni residents to install mailslots or mailboxes without delay, although no definite date has yet been set for start of letter carrier service in the city.

Preliminary work and planning are going ahead in preparation for the change-over, said supervising postmaster E. L. Hammer.

FIRMS TO HELP

Business firms of Alberni Valley will help themselves, as well as the postal service, during transition from mail boxes to house-to-house delivery by obtaining from Alberni patrons and customers both box numbers and street addresses.

Firms should include street addresses in all correspondence or accounts addressed to Alberni now, he said.

PREVENT DELAYS

"This will enable a smooth transition and prevent delays through mail having to receive directory service or being returned to senders for better direction."

Nanaimo Fight Looms

New Motel Opposed

NANAIMO—Malaspina Hotel manager Ray Knight says there is sufficient hotel accommodation in Nanaimo and many rooms go unused most of the year.

Knight is spearheading the Nanaimo Hotel and Motel Operators' fight against a new motel to be built by the Pearson Bridge, at the corner of Comox and Terminal.

Knight stated "We will put our objections before city council."

The motel is to be built on land sold by the city.

They plan to put an 80-room motor hotel on the site.

Fairey Doubles Plant

Big Expansion Planned By Island Aviation Firm

By JACK FRY

Fairey Aviation has doubled its plant space at Patricia Bay Airport in a bid to become one of the Pacific Northwest's largest aircraft service industries.

The firm has purchased the department of transport hangar. It is also bringing in new machinery, machine tools and new departments "to increase our capability in the aircraft field," said manager Dennis Howell.

NOT YET FINALIZED

Separate announcements of the program were made yesterday by Mr. Howell and MP George Chatterton, who made representations to the government in Ottawa.

It seemed certain last night that Fairey Aviation will now get contracts for servicing of all Canadian military aircraft on the west coast. A company official said it hasn't been finalized but Mr. Chatterton said it will be.

OPERATIONS DOUBLED

"I brought the attention of the government to the potential of this industry here and they (the firm) were able to purchase the department of transport hangar, doubling their operations," said Mr. Chatterton.

Combination of airport runway extension to accommodate large aircraft, expansion of the aviation firm's facilities and awarding of military contracts here will put Fairey Aviation into "a much better position for competing with United States' firms," said Mr. Chatterton.

EXPANSION SEEN

"I foresee a tremendous expansion in the industry at Patricia Bay," he added.

Mr. Howell said "this is our first step in progressive expansion here. We will be capable of carrying out work on military aircraft based on the west coast. We expect an upswing on this type of work starting about March."

MORE TO BE HIRED

He said the firm now has 120 employees and will be hiring more employees early in 1962.

Next week, Mr. Howell will make a two or three-week sales promotion visit to Japan in an effort to increase Fairey Aviation's existing contracts for export of aircraft parts to Japan.

Counters Tick Dust Not Bad

A cloud of radioactive dust—probably from an atomic explosion—has drifted squarely over Vancouver Island and sent radiation counters soaring to a point almost four times as high as the October average.

Pacific Naval Laboratory scientists in Victoria yesterday said fringes of the cloud were noted Nov. 7 when radioactivity level jumped to 2.5 times the October average.

By yesterday, airborne radioactive dust had brought the figure to four times the average of a month ago.

Even at its present level, scientists pointed out, each person is exposed to no more radiation than is emitted by the luminous dial of a wrist watch.

While they believe the fallout cloud is small, scientists say it is impossible to estimate its size, drift or place of origin.

They are unable to determine whether the cloud comes from Russia's recent superblast—or whether it is the cloud from another explosion on its second or third trip around the world.

Former Alderman

McEwen Newest Bidder In Mayoralty Contest

Victoria's 1955 mayoralty election slate may be duplicated this year with entry of former alderman Elmer McEwen into the contest.

Mr. McEwen confirmed last night he is considering running in this year's mayoralty election.

He was a starter in the 1955 election but had to withdraw shortly before actual election because of a technicality. He then sought an aldermanic seat but was defeated.

Other candidates in 1955 were Claude Harrison, then mayor, and Mayor Percy Scurrah, who defeated Mr. Harrison.

ADMITS RUNNING

Mr. Harrison has admitted he is considering running this year, and Mayor Percy Scurrah is expected to seek re-election although he has not declared himself.

Mr. McEwen was elected as an alderman in 1956 and was on council until 1960 when he decided to quit. He refused to give a reason for not seeking re-election.

OTHER CANDIDATES

Other possible candidates for the mayoralty include W. A. Scott and Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith. Mr. Smith is also considering contesting the election.

Lowest Airport Bid From Vancouver

Vancouver firm of Dawson Wade and Co. Ltd. was lowest of seven bidders for the job of extending the main runway at Patricia Bay Airport by 1,000 feet, it was learned yesterday.

The company submitted a bid of $201,810.

It had been estimated the job would cost in the neighborhood of $234,000.

Jamieson Construction was next in line with a tender of $205,025.

Highest bid was submitted by McEachern and Co., Vancouver, with a tender of $243,317.

The extension will boost present main runway length at Patricia Bay to 6,000 feet.

This will enable large types of aircraft to land at the airport.

Extra Day At BCE For Holiday

Home Craft Takes Four To Adventure

Four young adventurers left Victoria's inner harbor yesterday aboard a home-built catamaran bound for the U.S. west coast and possibly Mexico.

Bernhart Abel, 34, of Vancouver, designer of the twin-hulled craft, along with crewmen Franz Giers, 21, Wolfgang Giffels, 22, and Clark Hauf-man, 19, built the vessel in 30 days at a cost of $1,200.

Immediate ports of call include Port Angeles, Neah Bay, and ports along the Washington, Oregon and California coasts.

Supplies and equipment are stored in the vessel's twin hulls. They plan to camp ashore and sail in only fair weather. Power is supplied by a small outboard and main and foresail.

The expedition hopes to make Mexico, but doesn't plan on breaking any records.

"It is only a holiday trip," their skipper said. "If we make our goal so much the better."

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

CANINE-NAPPING: Character in town has a boxer dog named Baron who has the habit of wandering away from home every now and then.

The other day the dog's owner was driving along Yates when he saw Baron trotting along the sidewalk. He stopped the car and jumped out.

"Baron!" he yelled. "Come here!"

Baron ambled over to the car, apparently pleased to see his own master, who was a little angry.

He opened the car's rear door and, as Baron hopped onto the back seat, delivered a stinging swipe on the dog's rear end.

With that, the character drove to his home.

It was only when he pulled into the driveway, and saw his dog waiting for him there, that he realized he'd made a ghastly mistake.

The dog he'd picked up was a boxer named Baron, sure enough, but it belongs to Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes!

WELL VERSED: Throughout the lengthy income tax evasion trial which has been featured in Saanich police court, Magistrate J. A. Byers followed the intricate developments with ease.

As he disclosed yesterday, he'd once been an income tax investigator himself in India.

CHRISTMAS CHEER: Victoria historians have been thrown into a flap by an executive's report that some of the more elderly members lost a few of their inhibitions by consuming as much as five glasses of sherry at the Christmas reception last year.

This year it's going to be different.

Members have approved a plan whereby the bar steward will punch their tickets for the event — and thus limit the guests to two nips of sherry per person!

WORLD REPORT: In Washington, the gravity of our time was emphasized when Dr. Bentley Glass, a scientist, submitted a report to the government which later refused him permission to re-examine it on the grounds he wasn't cleared for access to such top-secret material! . . . French delegates to the Moscow Trade Fair, understandably alert to the possibilities of their hotel room having hidden microphones, cut through a maze of multi-colored wires they found hidden under the carpet. The floor was thick but not so thick that it deadened the sound of the chandelier crashing in the room beneath them!

RELATIVE DENSITY: Students attending night school course on nuclear energy were provided this week with a sample of radioactive dust filtered from the air over Victoria.

Measuring devices were brought in so they could determine for themselves the precise amount of fallout the air contained.

These gadgets began clackety-clack-clacking with shotgun rapidity. Then Dr. William English of the Pacific Naval Laboratory put everything into proper perspective.

The same devices were used to measure the radio-activity emanating from the student's wrist watches.

These clacks were the loudest heard all evening!

LOCAL GROCER PAYS TAX FINE OF $15,000

Back Taxes of $39,365 Ordered—Plus Interest

By ED COSGROVE

Probably the heaviest total of fines ever imposed in Greater Victoria police courts was levied yesterday by Magistrate J. A. Byers against a Saanich supermarket operator charged with falsifying income tax returns.

Henry Eng, operator of Oakcrest supermarket, 3475 Quadra, was fined a total of $15,000 for six counts of filing false income tax returns.

The trial of Mr. Eng came to an abrupt end yesterday afternoon when defence counsel W. H. M. Haldane requested permission to change his client's plea to guilty.

The surprise move came at the midway point in the lengthy trial.

More than 10 witnesses had been heard in eight court appearances since the trial began in Saanich court last month. Another 10 were ready to testify yesterday.

Must Pay Back Taxes

Thirty-five exhibits had been entered into the evidence and reams of documents supporting the Crown's case were on hand in court.

Besides the fine, Mr. Eng will also have to pay $39,365 in back taxes.

Kenneth Stokes, investigator for the income tax department, who had handled the two-year probe into the finances of Mr. Eng's supermarket, told the court his investigation disclosed a total of $116,423 in undeclared income from 1954 to 1957.

This included $84,985 realized from sales, $26,093 in duplicated costs, $1,238 in personal expenses (declared as business expenses); $3,917 in profits from unreported truck sales and bank and mortgage interest of $190.

Second Largest Fine

Mr. Stokes said the additional income tax accruing from these profits came to $39,365 "not including interest calculation."

Later, he told the Colonist that collection of the outstanding taxes would be turned over to the collection department of his office. He said the interest rate was computed at approximately eight to 10 per cent.

The fine was the second largest ever imposed against an individual on Vancouver Island.

Largest fine was levied against the late Mayo Singh, of Paldi, who in 1954 was fined $20,000 at Lake Cowichan after pleading guilty to charges involving back taxes of some $300,000.

The application to change the plea came after a half-hour conference by both prosecution and defence counsel in Magistrate Byers' chambers prior to court convening.

'Could Be Disputed'

Then both batteries of counsel (Pat Sinnott and his nephew Jerry Sinnott for the prosecution; Mr. Haldane and Frank Donegani for the defence) filed into court.

When Mr. Byers entered, Mr. Haldane rose:

"I am instructed . . . to ask leave . . . to withdraw the plea of not guilty to each of the six counts . . . and to enter a plea of guilty on each," he said.

Crown counsel offered no objections.

After Mr. Stokes related the findings of his investigation, Mr. Haldane asked him:

"Would you agree that possibly your findings could be questioned, and some of the figures subject to dispute?"

Mr. Stokes said he agreed that some of the figures could be disputed by another authority, but to his knowledge, they were accurate.

Speaking to the sentence, Pat Sinnott said the department of justice considered falsification of income tax returns "a very serious matter."

This, he said, was a "flagrant case" of deceiving the government and the "people of Canada."

"The maximum penalty on each count can be a fine of $10,000, plus two years' imprisonment, plus a levy of

Queen Off Today

LONDON (CP) — The British cabinet decided at a special meeting Wednesday that the Queen should go ahead with her state visit to troubled Ghana.

She and Prince Philip leave this morning by jet plane.

Prime Minister Macmillan drove to Buckingham Palace to inform the Queen of the decision and then told the Commons the Queen would proudly go ahead with the tour despite a series of bomb blasts in Accra, capital of the West African Commonwealth nation.

The Queen is said to be looking forward eagerly to the trip and to have made it known that her personal inclination was against altering the program, announced months ago.

In Accra last night the Ghanaian government warned it would impose the maximum penalty, "including death," for any acts of subversion during and after the Queen's visit.

81 Die In Air Crash

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) —A chartered Constellation carrying 78 military recruits destined for training in the Berlin buildup crashed while making an emergency landing with two of its four engines dead at Byrd Field here last night. There were only two known survivors.

The Imperial Airlines plane also carried a crew of five. The two survivors were the pilot and the flight engineer.

If only two of the total 83 were alive it would be the worst crash of a single non-military aircraft in the nation's history. The most costly previous crash was that of a TWA Constellation in Chicago Sept. 15 of this year, which killed 78.

The flight originated in Newark, N.J., and was en route to Columbia, S.C. The recruits were believed to be from the Baltimore, Newark and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., areas. The plane had made a stop in Baltimore.

Kennedy Defends Nehru

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy came quickly to the defence of Jawaharlal Nehru yesterday when told by a reporter that "a number of people" think the Indian premier's views tend to be pro-Communist.

Kennedy seemed somewhat shocked at the statement, made by a foreign reporter at the president's news conference.

"I know of no rational man in the United States who holds that view," Kennedy said.

A few hours earlier Kennedy and Nehru had spent an hour and 20 minutes together in their third straight day of talks.

Kennedy said he and Nehru naturally differed on some matters. But he knew of no one more committed to individual freedom than the Indian leader.

Giovanni's Loaded with Lire After Fabulous Run of Luck

TURIN, Italy (AP)—Giovanni Vallauri has decided, with some reason, that he is having a run of luck.

On Oct. 21 Vallauri, a Turin chemist, took a chance on Italy's weekly state-run lottery, Enalotto, and won 3,500,000 lire ($5,600).

The next day he played Italy's Totocalcio football pool and won 8,000,000 lire ($12,800).

On Oct. 28 he went to Turin's auto show to see what he could buy with his winnings. He won a 500,000 lire ($800) car on his entry ticket.

The next day he played Totocalcio again and won 2,000,000 lire ($3,200).

And, of course, Enalotto rolled around again Monday. His winnings: 1,900,000 lire ($3,000).

Total to date with Totocalcio coming up again Sunday: 15,900,000 lire ($25,400).

Presidential Switch Forced By Angry Air Force Attack

QUITO (AP)—Ecuador's air force attacked Quito with jet fighters Wednesday and forced the army to accept left-leaning Vice-President Carlos Julio Arosemena as president of the crisis-ridden nation.

Three T-33 jets firing rockets and machine-guns swooped over the Legislative Palace where tank-supported soldiers were holding Arosemena a virtual prisoner.

CLAIM DROPPED

Minutes after the attack, radio stations and loud speakers announced that army-backed Camilo Gallegos Toledo, supreme court chief and a political centrist, had dropped his claim to the presidency.

FORCE USED

Army units had picked him to take over the job left vacant by the resignation of President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra. The Congress voted Arosemena into the job and the air force backed up the decision with force against the army.

TANKS WITHDRAWN

As soon as Gallegos' resignation was announced, army tanks and troops withdrew from the palace.

Deposed president Velasco Ibarra obtained political asylum yesterday in the Mexican embassy.

Scared Morgue Man Stays Out in Cold

CHICAGO (UPI)—The coroner asked permission yesterday to hire a second attendant for the midnight-to-8 a.m. shift at the county morgue because the present attendant "is afraid to stay alone in the morgue with the bodies." Coroner Andrew Toman said the lone attendant puts the receiving office telephone outside the window and stays out in the cold awaiting any calls.

The coroner said none of the three daytime attendants want the job. "They're just as scared," he said.

Bomarc Heads in Air

'War Might Catch Us Without Nuclear Arms'

PORT HAWKESBURY, N.S. (CP)—Opposition leader Pearson said Wednesday that nuclear war might catch Canada off guard with no time to secure nuclear weapons.

Mr. Pearson said the government was spending millions on two Bomarc-B missile sites but would not declare its policy on nuclear warheads for them.

Mr. Pearson said it appeared to be the government's policy to "wait for an emergency and then decide," but in nuclear warfare, there might not be time to secure nuclear warheads.

OTTAWA (CP)—There is no present intention of ordering conventional warheads for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, reliable sources said Wednesday.

Such warheads would cost an enormous amount to develop and produce, the sources said, taking issue with a spokesman for Boeing Airplane Company, manufacturer of the Bomarc, who said last week high-explosive warheads could be easily installed in the weapon.

The defence department said last month the question of warheads for the Bomarc was not considered urgent at the time because it would be some months before the missiles were installed on their launching pads at North Bay and La Macaza, Que.

The department made this statement when it became clear that only nuclear warheads were available for the Bomarc.

The defence department hardly bothers any more to conceal its restlessness over the government's continuing policy of refraining from making a decision on acquisition of American nuclear warheads.

UN Demands A-Test Talks

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) —The General Assembly last night called for immediate resumption of negotiations on a nuclear test ban treaty despite Russia's clear warning it would not participate in such talks.

The vote was 70-11 with 15 abstentions. Only Cuba joined the 10-nation Soviet bloc in opposing the call, contained in a resolution sponsored by the United States and Britain.
